SMITH AND DEAL WIN VIRGINIA CONGRESS RACES; BURCH LEADS

Judge Gets Democratic Post in Eighth, With Ball Second.

WHITEHEAD TRAILS IN FIFTH DISTRICT

Former House Member Reported Victorious in Second.

KEITH AND MACKEY PASS DE JARNETTE

1,000 Are Believed to Have Shunned Danville Polls Due to Ruling.

Virginia Democrats, in hotly contested congressional primaries, yesterday gave victories to both Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, in the Eighth District, and to former Representative Joseph T. Deal, of Norfolk, in the Second District.

In the only other congressional district in the State in which a race was staged—the Fifth——Representative Joseph Whitehead, on the basis of 95 out of 214 precincts, was trailing his only opponent, Thomas G. Burch, by 4,530 to 3,399 votes.

Senator Carter Glass, of Lynchburg, had no opposition for his seat.

Judge Smith, running as a neutral on the prohibition issue, early took a lead over his four opponents, and with the report of each county he increased his margin.

Ball Runs Second.

At midnight, with only Louisa and Stafford Counties missing, with both these unofficially giving him substantial majorities, Judge Smith had amassed 8,358 votes, a commanding lead over his near opponent.

Frank Ball, of Clarendon, a dry, indorsed by the Anti-Saloon League, ran second with 4,279 votes. In order came Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax County, State's rights candidate, outspoken wet and law partner of the retiring representative, R. Walton Moore, with 3,771; Crandal Mackey, of Rosslyn, advocate of prohibition repeal, with 937, and E. J. DeJarnette, of Orange, advocate of a quart of liquor a week, with 222 votes.

The Associated Press reported that with 118 out of 126 precincts in, Representative Deal had captured the nomination and the right to oppose Representative Menalcus Lankford, Republican incumbent, who defeated him in 1928, after the former had served in the House from 1921 to 1928.

Heavy Vote in Eighth.

Mr. Deal had 6,362 votes, a long lead over Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, with 1,792, and Wilson W. Vellines, a member of the Virginia House of Delegates, with 1,661 votes. This marked the entry of the first woman candidate in a national race in the State.

The vote was exceptionally heavy in virtually every county in the Eighth district. Judge Smith, in his own home city of Alexandria, polled 2,724 votes, a figure which exceeded the fondest expectations of his supporters.

His opponents finished there in the order which had been forecast for them. Mr. Ball polled 731 votes, this mark falling several hundred short of the total he had expected. Mr. Keith ran third in that city with 239. Mr. Mackey was fourth with 82, and Mr. DeJarnette garnered 4 votes.

Ball Carries Arlington.

Mr. Ball made an impressive race in his home county of Arlington, where his 2,063 votes gave him a good plurality there. Judge Smith was second there with 787, followed in order by Mr. Mackey with 455, Mr.

WEST VIRGINIA GIVES JONES SENATE LEAD

WINNER TO FACE NEELY

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—James Elwood Jones, wealthy McDowell County coal operator, had a lead of 3 to 1 over Judge Harry Shaw, of Fairmont, and former Representative Benjamin L. Rosenbloom, of Wheeling, for the Republican senatorial nomination in returns tonight from 891 out of 2,348 precincts in today's primary.

Former Gov. Albert B. White, of Parkersburg, was trailing far below Mr. Shaw and Mr. Rosenbloom.

The vote in 891 precincts was: Jones, 31,674; Rosenbloom, 10,888; Shaw, 10,713; White, 5,772.

The Republican winner will oppose former Senator M. M. Neely, unopposed Democratic nominee, in the November election.

The voters also nominated party candidates for the six West Virginia seats in the House of Representatives; 15 or half the personnel of the State senate, and the entire person-

New York, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The Maharajah of Pithapuram, India, accompanied by his family and a retinue of servants, arrived today on the liner Majestic for his first sightseeing tour of the United States.

Included in the party were the maharajah's wife and two sons and four daughters. The women were dressed in colorful native costumes.

The maharajah declined to discuss the present disturbances in India. He posed with his sons for photographers, but refused to include his wife and daughters in the picture.

After four days here the party will go to the Pacific Coast, stopping at St. Louis, Chicago and San Francisco. The potentate expressed a particular desire to see the Grand Canyon.

ALLEN LEADS, REED TRAILING IN KANSAS

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Senator Henry J Allen, former Witchita publisher and strong supporter of the Hoover administration, gained a big lead for the Republican senatorial nomination in early returns tonight from the Kansas primaries, but his close friend and political ally, Gov. Clyde M. Reed, was running behind in his contest for renomination.

Frank (Chief) Haucke, young World War veteran with a strong crsonal following and the support of all the enemies of the Reed administration, took the lead over the governor in the first returns and held it tenaciously, although the contest appeared close.

Returns from 311 precincts of the 2 668 in the State gave Mr. Haucke a lead of 4,879 over the governor. With the opposition vote split three ways, Senator Allen, who seeks to return to Washington for the unexpired portion of the term to which he was appointed by Gov. Reed when Senator Charles Curtis became Vice President, was having an easy time of it.

The vote for governor:

For senator, 386 precincts:

Mr. Allen, 23,380; Ralph Snyder, 10,125; Representative W. H. Sproul, 8,565; James F. Getty, 5,943.

The Democratic vote was normally light for an off-year primary. For the Democratic gubernatorial nomination Harry H. Woodring, of Neodesha, like Haucke, a former State commander of the American Legion, was leading Noah L. Bowman, of Garnett, State representative. Returns from 76 percincts gave Woodring, 1,191; Bowman, 994.

In 76 percincts the vote for the Democratic senatorial nomination was: George McGill, Wichita, 1,171; Charles Stephens, Columbus, 846.

Renomination of congressional incumbents, wherever there are contests, was indicated in early returns.

In the Third district, where Representative W. H. Sproul, after four terms, turned to the Republican senatorial field, Harold McGugin, Coffeyville, with 1,519, was leading Hugo

CENSUS COUNT IN NATION SET AT 122,728,873

LARGEST NUMERICAL INCREASE IN HISTORY

MONTANA BY ITSELF IN POPULATION DROP

Territories and Outlying Possessions Bring Sum to 137,501,561.

(Associated Press.)

The population of continental United States on the basis of official preliminary census figures is 122,728,873.

This figure was compiled last night from official announcements given Associated Press bureaus by census supervisors in the various States after completing the enumeration which began April 2.

Only one district in the United States—in Clearfield County, Pa.—was incomplete, but a preliminary estimate tonight by the census supervisor placed its population at 1,319. The total figure for the United States' population is, however, subject to revision in the Census Bureau's official announcement, which is not expected for another week or more.

Territories of the United States and outlying possessions not included in the continental United States total bring the Nation's grand total of population to 137,501,561. This figure includes an estimate for the Philippine Islands, whose census is controlled by the insular government, which has not made an enumeration for several years.

Greatest Numerical Increase

Continental United States had 105,710,620 people ten years ago, while the Nation with its outlying possessions totaled 117,839,305.

The country has had the largest numerical increase for continental United States in its history during the last ten years, despite restricted immigration and a declining birth rate. There was an increase of 17,018,253 people in the decade, compared with the previous record increase for a ten-year period of 15,977,691, made between 1900 and 1910

In rate of growth, the last decade made a better showing than that which ended in 1920. The increase was 16.1 per cent, compared with 14.9 per cent from 1910 to 1920, and 21.0 per cent from 1900 to 1910.

California Fastest Growing.

California had the largest rate of growth of any State, but was exceeded by New York in numerical increase. California's rate of growth was 64.6 per cent and her numerical increase was 2,215,421. New York's rate was 21.4 per cent and her numerical increase was 2,224,328.

Florida, second to California in increase percentage, rated a 51.4 per cent growth, with a numerical gain of 497,499. New Jersey, third in increase rate, added 26.8 per cent, a numerical gain of 846,668.

Montana was the only State to show decrease—2.8 per cent loss, the numericla decline being 15,370. In the 1920 census three States, Mississippi, Vermont and Nevada, showed decreases in population. Arizona had

CUBBAGE ACQUITTED IN SLAYING OF YOUTH

HEARERS KEPT SILENT

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Aug. 5.—Jacob Cubbage, 80-year-old farmer, was acquitted in the Page County court today of the murder of his grandson, Fred Cubbage, 19, on June 8.

Judge H. W. Bertram, who sat in the case, cautioned against a demonstration when the verdict was announced. There was only silence when the jury brought in its verdict, though it was evident that applause was being restrained.

Cubbage shot and killed his grandson in Cubbage Hollow, sixteen miles south of Luray. The defendant testified that he had never had any ill feeling against his grandson until the latter came toward him with a half gallon jar in his hand threatening to break his neck. Then the old man pulled the triger of his gun, inflicting a wound in the youth's leg from which he bled to death.

Accompanied by many friends, the aged farmer left Luray today for his old home in Cubbage Hollow.

Berlin, Germany, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, of Germany, today gave a reception to members of the Institute for International Affairs, among whom were several well-known Americans.

The guests from the United States included Senators Burton Wheeler, of Montana; Bronson M. Cutting, of New Mexico, and Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, and Ambassador and Mrs. Frederic Sackett.

Scores Jobless as Blaze Destroys Gore, Va., Mill.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Gore, Va., Aug. 5.—Scores made jobless by a $600,000 fire that destroyed the J. Natwick Co. planing mill and eight buildings here early this morning, were gathering ominous group last night, incensed by a rumor than thieves had deliberately started the conflagration to cover up their robbery of the postoffice.

Staring in the combination general store and postoffice where oPstmaster B. L. Larrick lived with his family, the flames swept through the entire business section of the small community, razing two warehouses, a filling station, the Winchester & Western Railroad's depot, the J. Natwick Co.'s hotel, two dwellings and the $125,000 planing mill. A postoffice truck, six freight cars, the railroad bridge over Back Creek and 8,000,000 feet of lumber were also reduced to blackened ruins.

Postmaster Larrick, who discovered the fire shortly after 12:30 a. m., was the only person injured. Awakening to find his general store and postoffice in flames, he rushed from the basement to the third floor, where two of his small children were sleeping. He found that they had escaped to the street by an outside stirway. Harold, aged 6, escaped with a singed head. Ida, 9, was untouched. As Mr. Larrick left the basement with his wife and other children, the building collapsed. He was burned about the face and head by tar dripping from the roof, and his feet were blistered.

All that he and his family saved were the night clothes they wore, but occupants of other homes were able to rescue their furniture and belongings. Thieves removed much property from the highway during the confusion.

Two engines were sent to the scene from Winchester, 13 miles away, but water in Back Creek was so low that they could auch little but sand.

(Associated Press.)

Testimony regarding an individual contribution of $96,750 to the Davis-Brown cause and charges of fraud and irregularities in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Westchester in the Republican primaries last May were laid before the Senate campaign funds committee yesterday by more than a dozen witnesses.

The hearing, the last to deal with the Pennsylvania contests, also developed detailed testimony regarding recount of ballots in the contest between former Gov. Pinchot and Francis Shunk Brown for the gubernatorial nomination and its effect on the result which showed Mr. Pinchot and Secretary of Labor Davis respective winners of the gubernatorial and senatorial contests.

Witnesses were divided on the advisability of Congress enacting legislation to assist States in conduct of primaries and elections, but Chairman Nye emphasized before the hearing opened that recommendations for Federal legislation to curb campaign expenditures undoubtedly would be asked in the committee's first report at the next session.

Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh brick manufacturer, told the committee he contributed voluntarily $96,750 to the Davis-Brown campaign. Questioned by Mr. Nye, he denied that any of the money was given in return for promises of State or county brick contracts.

"That's absolutely foolish and tommyrot," Mr. Bonitz said. "I've got my own reasons for being in politics."

President's Farm Aids to Make Survey on the Steps Needed.

DROP TO 90S GIVES RELIEF IN MIDWEST

Rain in Other Sections Brings Hope Heat Is Near End.

EARLY DOWNPOUR MAY RESCUE SOME CROPS

Damage in Many Regions Is Irreparable; Farmers Near Washington Suffer.

One death, bringing the Capital's heat toll for the year up to 26, marked Washington's ninth day of 100-degree temperatures this year as President Hoover conferred with Government depratment heads with a view toward giving relief to sections of the Nation stricken by the severe drought.

The death of Allen F. Burris, colored, 45 years old, 1924 L street northwest, at Emergency Hospital yesterday brought the toll up to nine within a period of eight days. Last year only one heat death was reported. Burris was overcome while working on a paving job at Sherman avenue and Harvard street northwest.

As the Department of Agriculture, upon instructions from Mr. Hoover, began a survey, reports on which are to be made next Monday, there came from vraious areas which have complained bitterly of the drough some slight hope that the end might be in sight.

According to Weather Bureau figures it was 102 in Washington yesterday afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock. At that hour the kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue registered 106 degrees.

Cloudy, Cooler Today.

Officially, the low temperature for the day was 78 at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, while on the kiosk the low fire was 82 at 6 o'clock. The percentage of humidity was 33 at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a rapid fall from the 70s earlier in the day.

Without giving any particular reason for it, the forecaster at the Weather Bureau issued a prediction of cloudy and cooler weather for today, although he added that no hopes need be held for an immediate break in the hot spell.

The serious situation in the farm lands of the midwestern States brought out the plan to have an immediate survey made by the Department of Agriculture to determine what steps may be taken to offer relief to the States so affected.

Mr. Hoover's Statement.

The President's statement in connection with the drought situation was as follows:

"The drought situation has been the subject of several conferences between Secretary Hyde, Chairman Legge and myself. The Department of Agriculture has undertaken a detailed survey of the situation. They will report next Monday upon the condition in each area of the country. The information so far indicates great variation in the effect of the drought, both as between States, between counties in those States and even between farms in the same counties.

"There can be no doubt as to its most serious character in many localities, and that unless relieved there will be real suffering. The maximum intensity seems to lie in a belt roughly following the Potomac, the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

"The measures of assistance that the Farm Board and other agencies of the Federal Government can and should undertake are being determined.

Railway Aid Asked.

"It is evident already that large measures of feed movement to live-

New York Policemen Halt After-Supper Riot on Welfare Island.

New York, Aug. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Hard feeling that has been brewing between the white and Negro prisoners at the City Penitentiary on Welfare Island for several days, burst through such feeble restraints as there were as the 1,200 men finished supper at 6 o'clock tonight and swarmed outdoors for their two-hour recreation period.

For ten minutes fists flew, baseball bats crashed about with malicious intent, kitchen knives flashed and rocks filled the air, in five separate free-for-alls. The thermometer at that time stood at 93 degrees, and the men's fury was soon exhausted. Ten minutes after the riot started the men submitted to the intervention of guards and the first detach-

SUNDAY POST

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Because in the past year there has been a trade recession that has been felt all over the world, most nations are making great efforts, often in the form of high protection and of practical exclusion of foreign goods, to recoup the losses which they have felt.

The United States has not gone that far, but the pressure from both business men and wage earners for measures that will insure to them the opportunity to produce the entire supply for the domestic market has become very insistent. It is the same action abroad which at present is converging upon the automobile trade.

For years almost all the automobiles exported in the entire world came from this country. It was inevitable that other nations should try desperately at least to keep more of their home markets for their home productions. Our cars were bound to face that problem sooner or later. Nothing we could do or refrain from doing would prevent it.

Temporarily, our manufacturers will encounter some difficulties. But, if they act with discretion and make proper contacts, the excellence and low cost of our cars will continue to commend them to foreign purchasers. We are far in the lead in this field.

Motor Craft Opens Fire in Belief Second Boat Was Rumrunner.

Boston, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Bullets fired from a Coast Guard motorboat off Ipswich upon another Coast Guard craft, a power surfboat out of the Salisbury Beach Station, in the mistaken belief that it contained rumrunners, today had cost one life. A Coast Guard board of inquiry headed by Commander Sands was scheduled for tomorrow to investigate the shooting.

The dead man was Boatswain's Mate Lewis E. Pratt, 30, of Kittery, Me. He was married and the father of a 5-year-old daughter. He died at the Ipswich Hospital after being brought ashore by his companion, Surfman Cleo Falkingham of Jonesport, Me.

ock in the drought areas or movement of animals out of the worst areas will need be undertaken later in the fall. It is too early to determine the precise character of relief, much depends upon the further spread of the drought, but no stone will be left unturned by the Federal Government in giving assistance to local authorities. I have asked the railways to investigate the situation from a transportation point of view."

Word that the drought has assumed proportions of a national disaster was brought to the Capital by Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange. He said unless rain fell within 30 days, animals, crops and dairies would suffer alike.

Among the relief measures now under consideration are special low freight rates to move hay and feed into areas short of their usual feed; maximum extension of credit facilities to farmers in regions hardest hit that they may secure feed for cattle and dairy herds and possible transportation of animals from the sections suffering most.

Sprinkle Rouses Hopes.

A sprinkle of rain, which fell in the Bethesda and Chevy Chase districts early yesterday morning, revived hopes that Washington might be due for a refreshing shower, but Weather Bureau officials cast gloom with an announcement that no rain is in sight for the next three days, at least.

Acting Health Officer Edward J. Schwartz announced that during the past week eight deaths were caused by heat, as many as were recorded for the entire year of 1928. During the same week a year ago only one heat death was reported. So far in 1930 there have been 25 deaths attributed to the extremely hot weather.

Nearby Maryland is on a restricted water diet and in some sections of both that State and Virginia, volunteers are fighting forest fires, endangering hundreds of acres of timberland and in some cases, residential districts.

Elsie Weatherington, 31 years old, colored, 356 H street southwest, was overcome by heat yesterday while working in a laundry. Treated at Emergency Hospital, she was later allowed to go home.

Slight Relief in West.

From the sun-scorched Midwestern plains last night came somewhat encouraging reports. Rain had fallen in some sections while in others the temperature had fallen to 90. It sounds silly, but a fall to 90 after days of 100's and 105's was something for which to be thankful.

There was one big word used in every report from cattle raising and dairying districts—"if." If August and September have anywhere near normal rainfall, the lack of water during July will not cause as much damage as had at first been expected. However "if" there is a continuance of the drought into these two months, the result is something none will venture to predict.

Preliminary figures prepared for the Department of Agriculture survey show New England States and part of the Southeastern States, including North and South Carolina, in good shape to stage a comeback unless the August and September rain fails to arrive.

Average feed crops are expected in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska, under normal conditions in the next two months, while four-fifths of average crops may be expected in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Alabama. Three-fourths of an average crop is the prediction for Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota, but Kentucky's crops seem ruined. Rice crops in Louisiana, too, have been abandoned because of lack of rain.

Kentucky Sends Appeal.

The situation was so bad in Kentucky that Gov. Flem D. Sampson sent a telegram to President Hoover urging the appointment of a Federal commission to survey drought conditions in that State.

Out of Chicago came the encouraging announcement that rain and overcast skies together with a breeze off Lake Michigan had combined to give the Great Lakes area a cool day with temperatures in the 70s. Iowa came in for a share of the blessings, a general rain bringing temperatures down all over the State. As much as 2½ inches of rain fell at Mason City.

Among the other Midwest cities reporting reduced mercury figures were St. Paul and Minneapolis in the 80s, with Duluth at 83. Lincoln, Nebr., had a high of 93 degrees, but that was 10 degrees cooler than the previous day. It was only 88 in Omaha.

New England States had moderate temperatures ranging in the 80s but New York City endured another scorcher with a high of 93. However, a breeze and low humidity aided the populace in bearing the heat. In Ohio moderate weather prevailed around Lake Erie while readings of 95 and above were reported in the southern half.

Light scattered showers were reported from west Tennessee, east Arkansas and southeast Missouri as the South in general had a day of average temperatures. Pittsburgh enjoyed a brief sprinkle but this gave no relief for a hot sun again sent thermometers to readings in the high 90s.

Heavy Losses Estimated.

Against the hope that cooler weather and rain might bring relief and save crops and cattle, came discouraging estimates of heavy losses beyond hope of redumption. Crop damage in Missouri alone, principally in corn, has been estimated at upwards of $100,000,000. A reduction of at least 25 pear cent in the normal yield is predicted.

The Federal crop reporter in Iowa announced that the corn yield in that State had been cut at least five bushels to the acre. Nebraska crops are 30 per cent under normal and Ohio's loss from the drought is set at $200,000,000. Pestilence and famine have attacked millions of dollars worth of live stock in Kentucky and inspectors have been asked of the Federal Government by the Louisville Board of Trade.

Milk producers in Illinois have been hard hit. They are grinding 75 per cent wheat for dry feed, with pasture crops in the worst condition in 30 years.

Damage to the cotton crop in Texas yesterday was estimated by George B. Terrell, State commissioner of agriculture, at 1,000,000 bales. He expressed the belief that the normal crop of 5,000,000 bales might fall below the 3,950,000 bale level of 1929. More than a third of the State's cotton is late but will be saved if rain comes within ten days.

Nearby Farmers Hit.

The loss to the corn crop in seven Mississippi Valley States has been estimated by Chicago commission houses to be between 600,000,000 and 800,000,000 bushels. These States have received only 25 per cent of their normal rainfall in the last six weeks. Higher prices for live stock are in prospect, as it is estimated 25,000,000 bushels of wheat will be fed to cattle.

Closer to Washington, Frederick County, Maryland, reports only a fifth of the normal yield of sugar corn and many farmers are not expected to realize enough on their crops to pay for fertilization. Barley is the only grain averaging better than normal with field corn, oats, peas and beans, hay, apples and peaches ranging from 20 to 60 per cent of normal.

So serious is the water shortage in the county that a ban has been placed on sprinklers. Farmers are driving stock 2 and 3 miles to water and most of the wells and cisterns are extremely low.

Cumberland, Md., also has issued orders curtailing the use of water. Fish and small game in and around Hagerstown, Md., are being seriously affected by the drought. In many of the smaller streams bass and trout are being removed to more favorable waters. Rabbits have been found dead at the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club, unable to get their usual supply of drinking water from the dew.

Temple Bids Again Asked; Bahaist Designer Is Elated

Gray-Haired Architect, From His Sick Bed in Chicago, Watches for Completion of Structure Over Moss-Covered First Story.

Chicago, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—A gray-haired architect lay critically ill in his studio home on the shore of Lake Michigan today, but a light has come back to his eyes.

Bids have been asked for the renewal of work on America's Bahaist Temple and hope has returned to Louis Jean Bourgeois that he would live to see steel and stone fashioned in the shape of his vision of long ago.

A decade ago Bourgeois dreamed of building an Occidental shrine of the Bahai; brought his dreams down to earth in blue print and sketch; then moved to the lake shore studio on the border of Wilmette to watch the temple rise. He was 64 years old then. Now, at 74, from his window, he can still see only the bleak, moss-grown concrete foundation, weather-stained with waiting for its superstructure. Through the decade it has attracted the curiosity of travelers motoring along the lake shore drive.

Spiritually restless, Bourgeois espoused several successive religious beliefs, finally becoming associated with the Bahaist movement. The sect, founded by the Persian Baha Ullah, now claims millions of followers. With its growth in the New World increasing—numbering now about 12,000—the need for an American temple was expressed. Chicago was chosen for its location and Bourgeois, in 1920, won an international contest for a design.

The corner stone was laid by the founder's son, Abdul Baba, and in 1922 foundation and basement were finished. Then the doctrines of Bahaism stilled the tools of the builders. There must be no debts, no mortgages, no solicitations; only the voluntary offerings of Bahaists the world over might enter the treasury. The Mashreq Ul-Azhar would cost $2,000,000, and foundation and basement had exhausted all ready funds.

But, through the passing decade, the Orient and Near East joined with the Bahaists of this hemisphere to swell the temple funds, and once more the builders are ready to proceed. Allen B. McDaniel, of Research Service, Inc., engineers of Washington, D. C., announced today that bids had been asked and construction would be resumed probably in September.

In his design, Bourgeois embodied the architecture of the Egyptian and Greek, Roman, Arabic, Gothic, renaissance and modern. His decorative motif interweaves the symbolism of mankind's religions. His temple, as a finished unit, will represent the principles of the Bahai movement—universal religion, universal brotherhood, universal education, the union of science and religion.

Throughout his plan the number "nine" pervades, the mystic Oriental symbol of perfection. Nine sides, nine doors approached by eighteen steps; nine fountains and nine ribs in the dome that will rise 162 feet above the boulevard. Its first story will be 36 feet high, its minarets of 45 feet. A circular wall will surround its 9-acre tract.

on the east side of the highway, leaping from them to the warehouses and depot. Sparks started a forest fire on Big North Mountain, nearly a mile away.

From the depot the fire jumped to a combination filling station and home owned by C. W. Franke, and from there to the lumber company's frame structure hotel, operated by Mrs. J. C. Bowman, and housing about half a dozen workers.

Other Buildings Destroyed.

The two-story warehouse of Fred Glaize, filled with empty barrels, and a warehouse owned by L. J. Hook fell quickly before the raging flames. Next went a bungalow occupied by William Wolford and his family, and a two-story dwelling which he rented to three families. A number of freight cars loaded with lumber carried the fire to the planing mill, and from there to the railroad bridge, where it burned out.

Houses occupied by C. A. Stout, manager of the mill, and O. D. Davis were damaged. The Western Frederick Bank, across the highway from the postoffice, was also damaged. More than half a mile of railroad tracks was twisted out of shape by the heat, and the town will be dependent upon highway transportation for several weeks.

No suffering was evident, as occupants of all the burned buildings except the postoffice saved their clothes and possessions. They were given shelter by neighbors on the west side of the highway, where the flames were prevented from spreading by the wind.

Statement by Larrick.

Although no definiteclews had been found to support his theory, Mr. Larrick expressed the belief that thieves had looted the postoffice, and started the fire to cover their trail. "When my wife awakened me," he said, "the second floor of my building, where the postoffice and store are located, was ablaze.

"Flames were billowing from a side door, which I had nailed up, so I believe that some one had opened this door, although I can not be certain."

He said that he had about $100, a quantity of stamps and the postoffice records in his safe. "I can not tell whether or not anything was stolen until I can get the safe from the debris of the cellar," he explained.

Sheriff Starts Inquiry.

Pending arrival of postal inspectors, Sheriff Luther Pannett, of Winchester, started an investigation, assisted by Officer Raymond Ayless of the State police.

About 60 men were employed in the planing mill, which specialized in hardwood flooring, but the plant was operating with a reduced staff at the time of the fire. The Natwick Co.'s headquarters are in Baltimore.

Most of the mill property was covered by insurance, but the majority of the other buildings destroyed had no fire protection.

Gambling, Assault Charged to Janitor

Joseph Campbell, Negro janitor of an apartment house on F street northwest near Second street, had a card game at his quarters there Monday night, and when he lost $22 to his friends pulled out his shotgun and forced the winners to turn over the money, according to police.

Yesterday in Police Court one of the complainants told Assistant United States Attorney Charles B. Murray that Campbell had accused them of cheating him and causing him to lose money which they alleged he had collected as rent from a tenant.

Mr. Murray made out papers charging Campbell with assault and permitting gaming. Later Campbell was arraigned and on advice of John P. Mullen, his lawyer, pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial. He was released under $800 bond.

Cooperation Given In Dump Nuisance

Arlington County Official Pledges Aid in Move for Abatement.

Cooperation was pledged to Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner of the District, by C. L. Kinnear, engineer of Arlington County, Va., in a plan to find a substitute dumping place for the trash dump near the flying fields at the south end of the Highway Bridge.

Maj. Gotwals received the pledge of cooperation by mail yesterday. Mr. Kinnear's letter was in response to one written by Maj. Gotwals asking cooperation of county authorities in putting an end to the smoky and ill-smelling dump which burns almost continuously.

Both the District and the county use the dump, and Mr. Kinnear said that he would take the question up with the Arlington County Commissioners. Maj. Gotwals is looking around for a temporary disposal scheme until the new District trash incinerators are ready for use in another year.

NEW ROADS SOUGHT IN PRINCE GEORGES

County Commissioners Hear Petitions for Highway Near University.

BOWIE AGAIN CANDIDATE

Petitions for highway improvements occupied the attention of the Prince Georges County Commissioners at their meeting at Marlboro yesterday.

A delegation of about 200 residents of the Bowie section, in a motorade of 49 automobiles, appeared before the Commissioners to seek their approval for construction of a State road from Lanham to the Severn, over an 18-mile stretch running partly through Prince Georges County.

Because of the short time intervening before their present terms expire, the Commissioners, although they looked with favor upon the project which would add a new link between Anne Arundel and Prince Georges counties, took no action beyond deciding to recommend to their successors that the road should be built.

After considering a petition on behalf of taxpayers for improvement of the Cool Springs Road, which runs from the University of Maryland to Riggs Road and its designation as a State highway, the Commissioners decided that the matter was one for settlement by the State roads commission. The road at present has a tarvia surface. Oliver P. Metzrott, chairman of the Republican State central committee, and W. P. Magruder, former county commissioner, appeared in behalf of the taxpayers.

Plans for a new State road connecting the university and Riggs road already have been given approval, but residents of the section point out that the proposed new road would be a mile away from the present thoroughfare and would run through a sparsely settled area whereas the present route serves a well populated district. They feel that instead of building such a new road, the present route should be improved and straightened.

A delegation from Piscataway appeared before the commissioners asking that the road from Clinton to Piscataway, already half finished, be completed. The commissioners took no action on this request, however.

Following the public meeting of the county commissioners, the officials went into executive session with Irvin Owings, chairman of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and Irving C. Root, chief engineer for the body, to study a proposal for revision of the county zoning ordnance.

The principal point under consideration was a request that the present provision that applicants for changes in zoning classifications have the approval of at least 35 per cent of residents of the secti be eliminated. Judge Robert B. Peter, in the Circuit Court at Rockville, Montgomery County, already has ruled that this provision is unconstitutional. The Prince Georges commissioners decided to place the question before States Attorney J. Frank Parran for decision.

Brice Bowie, Prince Georges County clerk, yesterday announced his candidacy for the office of county treasurer. He is the only Democrat thus far in the field, and if nominated by his party he probably will be opposed by William A. Duvall, of Branchville, now a member of the board of county commissioners, who filed his candidacy on the Republican ticket about two weeks ago.

Mr. Bowie stated that if elected he will appoint R. Ernest Smith, the present treasurer, as his deputy. Under present law, the county treasurer is ineligible for reelection, and Mr. Smith stated yesterday that he would not run for any office this year.

Mr. Bowie, whose home is in Riverdale, has been active in county politics for several years, and frequently has been a delegate to Democratic State conventions. He also has served on the county board of education. He resigned last year from the board of commissioners to become county clerk.

One Democratic candidate entered the field in the county yesterday. Francis H. Crown, of Mount Rainier, announced that he will seek the Democratic nomiiofortaOpd? s- uancin ocratic nomination for county commissioner. He has been an election official in the Chillum district for several years, and was prominent in the organization and developmet of the Mount Rainier Volunteer Fire Department and the Prince Georges County Firemens Association.

Four warrants were sworn out in Prince Georges County yesterday against George Stewart, colored, of Clinton, who was seriously wounded when shot early last Friday morning. Rogers Green, colored, said to be the man who shot Stewart, swore to a warrant charging housebreaking; his sister, Bertha Green, signed one warrant charging assault and battery and one charging larceny of $11; and Constable A. C. Thompson charged Stewart with carrying a dangerous weapon after he said he found a pistol with which the man was supposed to have threatened the Greens. Stewart is in serious condition in Providence Hospital.

Possibility of complications is seen when an inquest is held tonight at Clinton, Md., into the death of George Skinner, 32, colored, who died last week at Casualty Hospital as the result of injuries received when he was struck early on the preceding Sunday by an automobile alleged to have bene operated by George H. Loss, of 633 Ninth street northeast, at T. B., Md.

Loss is expected to swaer that the Negro was pushed in front of his automobile by two other Negroes who fled immediately, and A. C. Thompson, Prince Georges County policeman, who has been investigatnig the case, states that he is prepared to arrest the two Negroes on charges of manslaughter. Whether Skinner was pushed under the wheels of the car accidentally or in what was intended for a joke is a question Policeman Thompson hopes to have answered.

2,000 CHINESE RED EXECUTION VICTIMS

POWERS RUSH WARSHIPS

Shanghai, Aug. 6 (Wednesday) (A.P.).—Two thousand Chinese were executed while Communists were in possession of Changsha, Hunan Province capital, Japanese press dispatches said today. In addition, 4,000 Chinese were missing, either executed or kidnaped.

From Hankow came word that uneasiness continued at high pitch in Wuchang, Hankow and Hanyang, as Reds were reported planning an attack. The Chinese populace was forming a volunteer defense force to prevent repetition there of the wholesale robbery and murder perpetrated by Communists at Changsha.

Reds continued active north of Hankow, txeorting money and supplies from the helpless populace.

With severance of the Peiping-Hankow Railway, the large foreign missionary colony at Kikungshan, southern Honan Province, became isolated. The place contained a Lutheran colony of 200. They were considered in no immediate danger, although unable to depart.

Capture of Nanchang Imminent.

Foreign wireless reports from Kiangsi Province said Communist capture of Nanchang, the capital, was considered a matter of hours, as the Red legions virtually surrounded the city and were greatly superior to the defending troops.

Other reds were believed planning to cut the Nanchang-Kukiang railway south of Kiukiang.

Members of the same Communist force captured Hsiaho at the southwestern base of Kuling Mountain.

Among the missionaries who recently arrived at Shanghai from Changsha were Miss Maud Russell, of the Y. W. C. A., from Hayward, Calif. She was the last of the foreign women to leave. Others were George Helde, Y. M. C. A., Cincinnati; William Clark, secretary of the Presbyterian Mission secretary of the Presbyterian mission at Changsha, from El Cajon, Calif., and V. L. Parnum, Evangelical Mission, Portland, Oreg.

More Warships Dispatched.

Aroused by further outrages against foreigners, foreign governments today ordered additional warships to proceed up the Yangtze River to reinforce eleven gunboats at Hankow and five at Changsha.

Despite announcement of the Nationalist government its troops had reentered Changsha, recently attacked by the reds, the situation was considered grave there and at Hankow, which is threatened by approaching Communist armies.

The American gunboat Luzon arrived at Hankow today, prepared to aid the U. S. S. Palos, which had five sailors wounded in two clashes with reds recently while protecting foreigners.

Leaving Sasebo, Japan, for Shanghai, four Japanese destroyers were rushing to join others in the Yangtse patrol.

New Outrages Reported.

New outrages against British nationals included the wounding of three sailors at Changsha, in a gunboat engagement with Communists; the probable fatal bayoneting of Mrs. A. R. J. Hearne at Puchen, and the sending of a severed finger of a woman missionary, Miss Edith Nettleton, with demand for $50,000 ransom for herself and companion, Miss E. J. Harrison, held captive a month.

The Communist menace sweeping the Yangtse valley affected the great southern provinces of Hunan, Hupeh, Kiangsi and Fukien. Dispatches from far-flung areas throughout these provinces said numerous red bands, numbering from a few hundred to 10,000, continued to pillage towns and rob the populace without opposition.

Foreigners throughout these areas were fleeing toward river and coastal cities. Whereabouts of many of them were unknown here. The majority were missionaries, recalled for safety.

Headquarters here of several missions reported varying proportions of their inland staffs had reached places of refuge, while others were bottled up at interior towns, avoiding the Reds, but unable to reach treaty ports. Still others, it was feared, had fallen into the hands of marauders.

Along the Yangtze, between Kiukiang and Hankow, the Communists for 24 hours have been looting and burning villages, apparently seeking to terrorize country folk into joining them.

Kiukiang advices said fears were growing that the city was doomed to Red attack shortly, as 10,000 Communists were reported advancing from the west. Additional foreigners departed from Kiukiang today for safe areas.

London, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—It was announced today that Miss Gertrude Rugg, British teacher, who was unable to reach safety before the looting of Changsha and was captured, has been released and is aboard a British ship.

(Associated Press.)

The U. S. gunboat Luzon, flagship of the Yangtze patrol, has moved up the Yangtze River from Shanghai to a position at Hankow, where the U. S. gunboat Guam has been stationed during Communist activities in that area.

Information at the Navy Department was that the Luzon, one of the new gunboats, had gone up the river to be in a position to reinforce the Guam and the Palos, now at Changsha, and was scheduled to arrive at Hankow yesterday. The Panay, fourth boat of the Yangtze patrol, is at Chengling, near Yochow.

The name of the sailor who was wounded aboard the Palos during a skirmish at Changsha Sunday was not given to the Navy Department. The report indicated, however, the wound was not serious.

Woman Stabbed with Ice Pick.

Suffering from five stabs from an ice pick, Josephine Johnson, colored, 27 years old, was taken to Emergency Hospital last night. Police of the Third Precinct arrested Dorothy Lucas, colored, 22 years old, of Twenty-third street near E street northwest, on charges of stabbing the other woman. The attack occurred on Virginia avenue near Twenty-third street northwest.

COURTHOUSE WORK STARTS NEXT WEEK

Charlotte Concern's Bond for Montgomery Job Is Approved.

CHANGE BUS SCHEDULES

Work on the new Montgomery County courthouse and all building is to be started next week, the county commissioners were advised at their meeting in Rockville, Md., yesterday by Delos Smith and Thomas S. Edwards, who said the contractor had notified them of his preparedness to start at once.

The commissioners approved the bond of the J. J. McDevitt Co., of Charlotte, N. C., the contractors, for the full amount of the contract, $384,000. The Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland acted as surety.

Upon recommendation of the architects, the commissioners approved appointment of Robert F. Jordan as clerk of the works. It will be his duty to represent the commissioners and the architects during construction of the new courthouse; he will have to inspect and approve all classes of building material and their proper placing.

An application by Frank R. Abbo, proprietor of Villa Roma, for permission to construct a swimming pool in connection with his restaurant was denied by the commissioners on the ground that, although they personally favored the idea, public sentiment in the vicinity has not yet definitely favored location of a pool at that point.

The Rockville Fire Department's new truck has arrived, with a representative of the factory present to assist the volunteers in learning its operation. The new piece of apparatus is equipped with a pumper having a capacity of 500 gallons per minute. The Rockville department also has one engine with a 400-gallon pumper and one with a capacity of 500 gallons, as well as 5,000 feet of hose.

Residents of Gaithersburg, Washington Grove and other nearby Maryland communities will hold their annual outing today at Chapel Point under the joint auspices of the Gaithersburg Chamber of Commerce and the Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Volunteer Fire Department.

An extensive program of athletic events and other amusements has been planned under the direction of Ernest Carter, chairman of the entertainment committee. Arrangements have been made for the picnikers to start from the First National Bank Building in Gaithersburg at 9 o'clock this morning.

Morton Townsend has been elected president of the newly formed Democratic Organization Club of the Sunshine-Unity section of Montgomery County. Other officers include Webster Johnson, vice president; Miss Anna Mary Prieve, secretary, and Mrs. Blanche M. Howes, treasurer.

Walter Johnson, William Wachter, Mrs. Mayne Elkins, C. N. Zeitler, Thomas A. Ridgely, Mrs. Frank Cashell, Louis Myers, French Robias, Morton Townsend and Mrs. Margaret B. Groomes were named as members of the executive committee.

The schedule of bus operation between Bethesda and Silver Spring, Md., will be changed Sunday to provide for connections from Bethesda to Baltimore in the morning and on the return trip in the afternoon, it was announced yesterday by the Washington Rapid Transit Co.

On Monday there will also be a change in the Ashton-Colesville-Washington bus route schedule, providing an additional trip leaving Ashton at 9 a. m. and leaving Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue in Washington at 3:50 p. m. The trip now leaving White Oak at 7:35 a. m. will be continued.

W. P. Elliott was elected president of the Potomac conference of the Church of the Seventh Day Adventists now being held at Sligo Park, Md., W. B. Mohr has been made secretary and treasurer, while the executive committee includes W. P. Elliott, J. W. MacNeil, W. B. Mohr, H. A. Morrison, H. H. Hamilton, E. C. Atkinson, W. C. Hannah, C. H. Dougherty and L. W. Graham.

The new highway connecting Olney and Laytonsville, Md., was thrown open to the public yesterday, opening considerable area in the central section of Montgomery County and linking with important thoroughfares at each terminal point.

Work on the final section of the Brookville-Sunshine-Patuxent River highway has been started, and the new bridge connecting Howard and Montgomery counties at the end of this thoroughfare has been completed, as has also the bridge over the Patuxent River at Triadelphia. All of these projects were financed through the State post and lateral road fund.

Mrs. Grace M. Donnelly, of 40 Kenworth avenue, Garrett Park, Md., reported to police at the Bethesda substation yesterday that two diamond rings with a value of $475 had been stolen from her home Monday night. She had hidden the rings between blankets on her bed, she told the police.

Peace Move Made By Indian Leaders

Peace Emissaries Arrange for Jail Transfer of Gandhi Disciples.

Bombay, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The Indian government today took steps to hasten negotiations that look to peace in troubled India, ordering transfer of Pandit Motilal Nehru and his son, Pandit Jawarhalal Nehru, to the jail occupied by Mahatma Gandhi at Poona.

The Nehrus, who were prominent among leaders of the civil resistance movement following imprisonment of Gandhi, have been serving sentences in the jail at Allahabad.

Two peace emissaries, Sir Hej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar, who are seeking to reconcile Nationalists with the government, were responsible for the transfer.

Political observers were not particularly optimistic regarding the results of the concession tonight, but they held that it was possible something might develop from the meeting of the three chief figures of the congress movement.

Preliminary Hearing Today in Hyattsville for Men Held in $2,500 Bond.

ASSAULT IN INN CLAIMED

A preliminary hearing will be held today in Hyattsville in the case of the two men who are said to have lured a woman into a Maryland roadhouse Sunday night and attacked her. The woman, who is separated from her husband, escaped from them without he relothes, which had been torn from her. She is said to have taken the clothes of one of the men as the only garments available.

All three are under arrest. The two men, George Godfrey and Talley Day, are charged with a statutory offense. They have been released on bond of $2,500, to appear this morning. The woman was charged with larceny, based on the taking of the clothes, and is being held for $500 bond.

The woman, Mrs. Muriel Pyeatt, 29 years old, of K street, near Fourteenth street northwest, alleges that the two men enticed her to the roadhouse with the hope that they might be able to find her employment. She was inurgent need of a job, she said, to support her young child. She said that she did not know the name of the place to which she went. The attack is alleged to have taken place at the Iron Lantern Inn, formerly Green Gables.

While the men were sleeping, after the alleged attack, the woman stole from the place, dressed in one of the men's clothing. In the pocket of the trousers, it is said, she found a diamond stickpin and a gold watch. Later, $61 in cash was found in the trousers by a Washington policewoman who investigated the case.

The lawyer for the woman, Francis J. Stoergerer, claims that the release of the two men on bond is illegal. He says that it is contrary to Maryland law to let out on bail men held for the offense with which these men are charged.

AIRSHIPS' MILITARY USEFULNESS CITED

Assistant Secretary of Navy Ingalls Stresse It at Balloon Cup Award.

CRUISING RADIUS FACTOR

Cleveland, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—As supercarriers of airplanes, the military future giant dirigibles was described today by David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, as assured beyond doubt.

In presenting the Gordon Bennett international balloon race trophy to Ward T. Van Orman before an aviation meeting of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Ingalls said he believed the modern dirigible "practically invulnerable when operated at sea."

Cruiser Radius Is Cited.

The two airships contracted for the Navy, one of which is to be completed next year, he said, would far surpass the airplane for observation at sea, and would be able to scout 20 times the area of a cruiser.

"The airplane, with only one or two engines and a few hours of fuel is obviously greatly restricted and limited in its operation and must restrain itself within reasonable distance of surface vessels to afford a base," he said. "The rigid airships may cruise for days and days and for thousands of miles, affording, through radio communication, information of inestimable value to our fleet.

Airship Carries Auxiliary Planes.

"Each rigid airship is capable of carrying within its hold five or six airplanes and of launching them and taking them on board again during flight," he continued. "These planes are the striking force of the rigid airship and may be used to bomb machine guns, enemy planes, bases and ships."

Ingalls praised Orman for the work he had done in free ballooning, an art which he described as "still a very important factor in our rigid airship development."

Pear Prices Set.

San Francisco, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—California pear growers have agreed to ask from $38 to $48 per ton for their 1930 crop. A short crop in 1926 brought a top price of $32.50 a ton.

WATCHMAN SCARES CRACKSMAN AT SAFE

SEEN FLEEING OVER ROOF

The presence of a watchman foiled an attempt last night by a colored safe cracker to force a safe in the offices of N. J. Ward & Co., commission merchants, at 927 B street northwest. The intruder escaped.

George H. Hatcher, of 4213 Eighth street northwest, the watchman, was making his rounds when he noticed a light on the second floor of the establishment. He remembered that there had been no light when he made his previous round.

As Hatcher ascended the stairs the light was extinguished. The watchman ran to the front of the store. He saw a colored man emerge from a window and run along the roof. The man dropped to the pavement at Ninth atreet.

Detective Sergts. J. W. Wise and J. J. Tolson found that the tops had been removed from the hinges of the safe. The rober had gained entry through a window on the second floor. No finger prints or tools were found. Mr. Ward said last night that about $400 in cash and a similar amount in checks were in the safe.

$30,000 in Good Scotch Poured in Albany Sewer

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Genuine Scotch whisky valued at $30,000 was taken from the Federal Building here today and poured into the city sewers by prohibition agents.

The whisky had been imported by a drug concern in 1921. It receved its shipment in one-fifth gallon bottles instead of in pint bottles. When told it would not be allowed to rebottle its importation for sale on physicians' prescriptions the firm "abandoned" it to the Federal Government.

NYE GROUP LEARNS OF KEYSTONE FRAUD

DEAD MEN REGISTERED

He said his company had been making fire brick for six years and that the total sales in that period to Allegheny County and the State amounted to "only $375,000."

Neither Mr. Davis nor Mr. Brown solicited any money from him, he said, adding that he had been asked to contribute since the primary to make up a deficit, but refused, saying:

"My God, don't you think I've been taken for enough."

This was the only testimony of the day dealing with contributions or expenditures, the remaining witnesses relating fraud charges and stories of registration of dead men and prisoners, voting of college students, and mutilation of ballots.

Ralph H. Frank, Pittsburgh attorney and Pinchot supporter, testified that there was a "complete paralysis" in the primary of "all the machinery which ordinarily tends to keep down election disorders."

He said Judge James Macfarland of common pleas court in Pittsburgh refused to reprimand men he had haled before the court for use of firearms at the polls and quoted the judge as having said: "I am a committing magistrate and not a schoolmaster for election officers."

Mr. Frank said that ballot boxes of the sixth ward, commonly known as "The Strip," were taken to No. 3 police station instead of the county commissioner's office, but that they would "have been safer standing in the middle of the street."

Allegheny County Cited.

The recount in Allegheny County, he said, would be the most "expensive and the least effective in detecting frauds" of any previous recount.

Charles C. McGovern, member of the Allegheny County returns board and western Pennsylvania manager for Mr. Pinchot, testified that for fraud the recent primary in that county was "no exception to any other."

"It's been the custom there to steal from 12,000 to 30,000 votes largely after they are delivered to the county courthouse," he said, adding that he hoped the Federal Government would "in some manner, without invading State rights, help up in Pennsylvania to supervise primary elections."

Conspiracy Charge Made.

F. S. Wood, a Westchester manufacturer, said he had affidavits to prove a "clean-cut conspiracy" between State Senator William H. Clark and Dr. Norman Cameron, principal of the Westchester State Teachers College, to have nonresident and under-age students vote in the primary in violation of the law.

Students were paid $2 each to vote, he asserted, and were carried to the polls in automobiles belonging to county officials. He said Russell Aticks was "pay off" man and that Aticks boarded with Leon Martin, an appointee of Clark in the State health department.

While not saying whom the students voted for, the witness said Clark and Cameron supported Pinchot and Senator Grundy in the primary. Additional affidavits were in his possession, he said, to show students who voted had paid no poll taxes.

Pinchot Aid Testifies.

On request of S. Davis Wilson, of Philadelphia, campaign manager in that city for Pinchot, Senator Nye asked who paid the students. Wood replied he had "hearsay evidence that it was Grundy money."

Dean Hoffman, managing editor of the Harrisburg Patriot and Evening News, and J. Dress Pannell, of the Harrisburg branch of the Pennsylvania Election Association, told of alleged frauds in Dauphin County embracing the State capital.

Hoffman said he had heard "first person stories" of iinvestigators being threatened by police, while Pannell said his investigators had found dead person stories" of investigators being

SMITH IS FAR AHEAD IN ALEXANDRIA VOTE

2,724, Ballots Are Received by Judge Out of Total of 3,780 Cast.

BALL, WITH 731, SECOND

Judge Howard W. Smith, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Eighth Virginia District, carried the six precincts of Alexandria yesterday by an overwhelming majority, polling 2,724 votes out of the 3,780 cast. State Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington County, was his nearest opponent, with 731 votes; Thomas R. Keith, of Fairfax, came next with 230; Capt. Crandall Mackey, of Arlington County, received 82, while E. H. DeJarnette, jr., of Orange, received but 4 votes in the city. The vote by wards follows:

Sixth Ward—Smith, 319; Ball, 182; Keith, 15; Mackey, 16; DeJarnette, 1.

The vote was an unusually heavy one, and each candidate and his supporters were hard at work from early morning getting out the vote. By noon the vote registered was by far the heaviest ever cast in Alexandria, and the predictions then were for a heavier vote than was actually cast. The majority for Judge Smith was not unexpected, although many felt that Senator Ball would poll a considerably larger vote than he did.

Six cars of the train went into a ditch. The derailment is believed to have been caused by a broken axle. Physicians who were sent from here gave first-aid treatment. None of the injured required hospital treatment.

B.&O. Deal Talk Hit By Alton Receiver

W. L. Bierd Denies He Said Control of Railway Had Passed.

Chicago, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Informed of the statement attributed to him in a dispatch from Bloomington, Ill., today to the effect that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has acquired control of the Chicago & Alton Railroad, W. G. Bierd, receiver for the Alton, denied that he had made any such announcement.

The dispatch quoted Mr. Bierd as saying that control of the Alton had been gained by the Baltimore & Ohio through purchase of a majority of the Alton's 3½ and 6 per cent bonds.

"I have no information which would permit me to make such an announcement," said Mr. Bierd, upon his arrival in Chicago tonight. "While in Bloomington I issued the following statement, which is all I can say in the matter: 'Jerome J. Hanauer, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., is handling all negotiations looking to purchase of 3½ and 6 per cent bonds that are referred to in the public press, the purchase of which for the Baltimore & Ohio would give that line control of the Alton through ownership of these two issues of bonds.'"

Mr. Bierd added that he had no information regarding progress of negotiations.

Airship Contract Is Not Canceled

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Adams said yesterday the contract had not been conceled for the ZRS-5, second of the two dirigibles ordered from the Goodrich-Zeppelin Co., at Akron, Ohio, by the Navy Department.

The Secretary said there was no basis of fact in the report the Navy Department had canceled the contract.

"Of course," he remarked, "as long as there is an option as to whether we may or may not build the second ship, there will be speculation on our position."

The Secretary added that, in line with President Hoover's economy program, the Navy Department is considering all means of curtailment, but that the contract for the ZRS-5 had not been canceled.

77,918 Errors in Recount.

Testifying earlier in his own behalf, Wilson said 77,918 errors had been found in a recount of 319 division boxes in that city and evidence showed "concerted action" by election officials to credit votes to their favorite candidates and take away from others.

He said many more "erasures" than "mutilated" ballots had been found and in almost all of the former cases the marks substituded were favorable to the Davis-Brown ticket and against Pinchot and others. Wilson and others expressed the opinion that the recount would show only little change in the Davis-Grundy senatorial race.

The minimum number of errors found in a single box was 16 and the maximum 1,515, he said.

Voters Swindled, Claim.

Asked by Chairman Nye if there had been an "awakened conscience" in Philadelphia to help obtain fairer elections, Wilson said:

"There has always been an awakened conscience there. Philadelphia voters were never corrupt. They are simbly swindled."

All opposition is crushed by the regular Republican machine, he said, adding however, that the people now were "throughly aroused."

He said the utility corporations were "waving the wet flag" in an attempt to blind the people to the real issues, but he thought the voters "believe an honest government is more important than a glass of beer."

After the hearing was over, Chairman Nye said he would try to dispose of the Pennsylvania case first after the general elections in November, because Secretary Davis, if elected, would succeed Senator Grundy, now holding office by appointment, on the first Monday in December, whereas other successful candidates would not take office until March.

nel of 94 of the house of delegates, as well as county and district offices.

An unrelenting sun beat down on a parched State as the voters went to the polls. Too, unfavorable weather conditions discouraged candidates from holding any of the old-time political rallies that provided the color in previous campaigns. The radio and newspapers provided the outlets for much of the campaigning.

Opposition to the Volstead act formed the principal plank in Rosenbloom's platform. The Antisaloon League listed Jones, Shaw, and White as "definitely committed against repeal of the eighteenth amendment, or weakening the Volstead act and all for prohibition enforcement."

SMITH VICTORIOUS IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Jurist's Lead Over Quartet of Opponents Is Nearly 200, Results Show.

SENATOR BALL IS SECOND

Judge Howard W. Smith carried Fairfax County by nearly 200 votes over four other aspirants for the Democratic nomination for representative from the Eighth Virginia Congressional District.

In 22 precincts of the 25 reported last night, Judge Smith received 1,105 votes of a total of 2,509 ballots cast. State Senator Frank L. Ball was second with 933 votes. The voting was light throughout the day.

Thornton, Woodyard and Pleasant valley precincts with a total vote of less than 50 had not reported last night. There were approximately 4,000 in the county who were eligible to vote. E. H. Jarnette did not receive a vote in the county.

The vote by precincts follows:

SMITH AND DEAL VICTORIOUS IN VIRGINIA AS BURCH LEADS

Keith with 166, and Mr. De Jarnette failing to receive a ballot. Mr. Ball's total, however, fell short of the 2,500 figure which had bene freely predicted for him. The total of 3,471 votes likewise fell substantially below the expected vote of 4,000 in the county.

Contrary to expectations, Mr. Keith failed to carry his home county of Fairfax on the basis of 22 to 25 precincts, his 933 votes being topped by Judge Smith with 1,105. Mr. Ball ran third with 427, followed by Mr. Mackey with 44. Mr. Jarnette likewise failed to gain a vote. The vote there also was moderately heavy. The three missing precincts were not believed to change the vote materially.

Smith Sweeps Loudoun.

Judge Smith swept through Loudoun County to poll 869 votes in an unusually heavy balloting. Its 28 precincts gave Keitth 598 for second place. In line were Ball, with 204; Mackey, with 146, and DeJarnette with 6.

Sixteen of eighteen precincts in Prince William County likewise gave Judge Smith first place with 792, a wide majority over Keith, with 420 as his nearest rival. Ball took a considerably lower 165, with Mackey getting 7 votes and DeJarnette 3 votes. The two missing precincts, both small and inaccessible by telephone last night, were not believed to have polled sufficient votes to have any material effect on the count. The vote was a surprise, as Senator Ball had been slated to win the county. For two days preceding the primary Mr. Ball had ben championed here by David Hepburn, a leader of the Antisaloon League.

Orange for DeJarnette.

Fauquier, with 17 out of 21 precincts reporting, piled up a commanding lead for Judge Smith, with 1,020 votes. Mr. Keith ran second with 732. Far below, Mr. Ball polled 185 votes, Mr. Mackey 55 votes, and Mr. DeJarnette 2 votes.

King George County, with complete returns, credited Judge Smith with an easy plurality. His total of 161 easily led Mr. Ball with 72, Mr. Mackey with 23, Mr. Keith with 10 and Mr. DeJarnette with 4 votes.

Culpeper County, its 10 precincts, registering an unusually heavy vote, gave Judge Smith first place with 619 votes. Mr. Keith ran easy second with 537, trailed by Mr. Ball with 175, Mr. Mackey with 18 and Mr. DeJarnette with 4 votes. The Culpeper total was little short of the vote cast in the general election.

Orange county, home of Mr. DeJarnette, polling a very light vote, gave its native son the lead with 199 votes. Close behind Judge Smith with 179, Mr. Ball with 160, Mr. Keith with 116 and Mr. Mackey with 107.

500 at Danville Challenged.

Unofficial reports declared that Judge Smith had been gven a leadership in Louisa County of approximately 350 votes over Mr. Ball as his nearest opponent, while in King George County Judge Smith was credited with a majority of about 100 votes.

Word came from Danville that fully 500 voters there had been challenged at the polls under the ruling of Attorney General John R. Saunders, of Virginia, made public in The Post yesterday, which declared ineligible persons [illegible] the 1929 gubernatorial election supported William Moseley Brown, coalition candidate running with the indorsement of the Republican organization on an anti-Smith platform.

A question of party loyalty was involved in the Fifth District race, where Mr. Burch publicly charged that Representative Whitehead had been "lukewarm" toward Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 elections and also toward Gov. John G. Pollard in his race last year.

The Danville report declared that fully 1,000 persons had stayed away from the polls because of the attorney general's ruling. Many of those who were refused a vote expressed indignation, according to the report, and declared their intention of supporting a Republican nominee in the event a satisfactory candidate is entered by that party.

Five Incumbents Unopposed.

Five Democratic incumbents in the House likewise had no opposition. They were Representative S. Otis Bland, in the First District; Representative A. J. Montague, in the Third District; Representative P. H. Drewry, in the Fourth District; Representative C. A. Woodrum, in the Sixth District, and Representative Harry St. George Tucker, in the Tenth District.

In the Ninth District, the home of C. Bascom Slemp, Republican national executive committeeman from Virginia, John W. Flannagan was nominated by the Democratic party in May.

Judge John W. Flahburne, former judge of the circuit court, was declared nominated in the Seventh District when no opposition developed before the primary.

U.S. Officials Deny Argentina Snub

Say Invitations to Stock Exhibitions Came From Private Interests.

(Associated Press.)

State Department officials sought yesterday to squelch gossip that the American Government had deliberately omitted Argentina from a group of Latin American countries invited to participate in live stock exhibitions to be held in St. Louis and Chicago.

As a result of published dispatches saying it appeared a "diplomatic snub" had been administered Argentina, officials explained the American Government merely transmitted the invitations on behalf of private interests, and had nothing to do with omission of so large a live stock producer as Argentina.

The countries invited were Brazil, Costa Rica and Mexico. The State Department disclaimed any knowledge of the manner in which the exhibition officials made up their list. The incident has caused speculation here because the post of Argentina ambassador to Washington has been left vacant by that government for more than a year.

Hoover May Talk Before A. F. of L.

Green Invites President to Address Convention in October.

(Associated Press.)

An invitation to address the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor at Boston next October was extended to President Hoover yesterday by William Green, president of the federation.

After his White House visit, Green said President Hoover had promised to accept the invitation if it were possible to do so. The Chief Executive plans to address the annual convention of the American Legion, which meets in Boston at the same time.

Mr. Green said he told the President the business survey conferences held at the White House last fall had, with little exception, "served to steady and maintain the wage and working standards which prevailed in industry prior to the period which marked the beginning of the unemployment situation."

DECREASE IS NOTED IN MINOR ARRESTS

MORE TRAFFIC CRASHES

Arrests for misdemeanors and traffic law violations in the last three months continued to show a decrease as compared with arrests for the same offenses in the same three months last year, according to figures made public yesterday by Capt. L. I. H. Edwards, personnel officer of the police department.

Arrests for Volstead law violations and drunkenness, however, showed that Washington is wetter than ever if arrests are in proportion to violations of the law.

There were 3,428 persons arrested for intoxication in the three months ending with July, as compared with 3,404 in the same three months last year. Arrests for violations of the Volstead law numbered 1,370, as compared with 1,231.

Arrests for misdemeanors decreased from 7,021 last year to 6,062 in the three-month period this year, while traffic arrests numbered 12,784, as compared with 19,759 recorded in May, June and July last year.

Arests for felonies also showed a slight decrease, numbering 983 in the last quarter, as compared with 1,036 in the same period last year.

The number of traffic accidents reported in the last three months was considerably more than those of the three months last year. There were 25 persons killed in the quarter last year and 23 killed in the quarter just ended. There were 1,407 accidents recorded in the three months last year as compared with 2,243 reported in the last three months.

Arrests for all offenses in the last three months numbered 27,629, as compared with 35,154 in the three months last year.

Judge Ralph E. Given fixed bond at $1,000.

Charges of a similar nature booked by the police against Mrs. Nelson were dropped by Assistant United States Attorney Julian I. Richards.

The couple and the baby were arrested by Sergt. J. R. Leach and his roving vice squad and were booked at the First Precinct. Nelson's automobile was seized.

The man was rushed to Casualty Hospital, where his condition was said to be serious. Doctors ascribed his collapse to epilepsy.

Five Cited With 'Bishop' In Rum Case PleadGuilty

New York, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Five men accused with Charles Mrzena, self-styled bishop of the Czechoslovak Orthodox Catholic Church, of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws by diverting sacramental wine to secular uses, pleaded guilty today in Federal Court.

Their pleas caused temporary postponement of the impending trial of Mrzena and eight codefendants, including a trucking corporation. Two others, including John Pedrykanyn, who said he was priest in charge of a church of the sect in Youngstown, Ohio, had already pleaded guilty.

KELLOGG PACT HELD TO MISS OBJECTIVE

Lord Eustace Percy Informs Institute of Politics War Likely, Despite It.

ANTARCTIC RIGHTS TOPIC

Williamstown Mass., Aug. 5 (A.P.). Lord Eustace Percy, addressing the Institue of Politics tonight on freedom of the seas, said that the wording of the Kellogg pact had "missed the point."

"It is difficult to judge whether any one really holds the view that the pact has rendered war impossible," he said. "It may seem captious to complain that the pact, while pledging its signatories to respect the sixth commandment, omitted to call their attention to the tenth, but it is nevertheless true that the wording of the pact does really miss the point.

"War is seldom deliberately planned; it is usually not so much a crime as a judgment upon crime. The crime lies in policies of 'holy selfishness,' which have never been so frankly avowed as by some of the signatories of the pact at the present moment. Debts, reparations, tariffs, exchanges, unemployment, emigration—these are the stuff of international politics today, and they are not the stuff out of which international good will is likely to be made.

"War Not Made Impossible."

"We have not made war impossible because we have issued a solemn declaration against it."

Many of Great Britain's claims in the Antarctic, particularly in the Falkland Islands, are challengeable on the basis of right of discovery, Dr. Laura H. Martin, geologist and geographer, of Washington, D. C., told members of the institute.

In an address before the conference on "Problems of Sovereignty in the Arctic and Antarctic," Dr. Martin said Great Britain asserted dominion over several polar areas extending beyond parts discovered by Englishmen.

The recent flights of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the Antarctic have again brought to the fore the question of whether the United States might claim land in the Antarctic on the basis of discovery, Dr. Martin stated.

U. S. Policy Held Factor.

The United States has so far never claimed land in the Antarctic, she pointed out, nor acknowledged Great Britain's claims to the region used for Admiral Byrd's base and his flights.

Dr. Jesse S. Reeves, of the University of Michigan, United States delegate on the Pan-American commission for the codification of the international law at Rio de Janeiro in 1927, told the conference that the United States as opposed to many nations, has never adopted a policy of basing claims to territory simply upon discovery.

WOMAN VOLUNTEER DEFENDS DRY LAW

Refusing Her Name, Speaker at Virginia Institute Answers Lawyer.

SPIRITED TALK IS GIVEN

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 5 (A.P.). An unknown woman who refused to give her name came to the defense of prohibition at the Institute of Public Affairs today after a spirited denunciation of the dry law by C. O'Connor Goolrick, Fredericksburg attorney.

Dr. Charles G. Maphis, director of the institute, was unable to find a speaker for the drys after Josephus Daniels gave notice of his inability to attend, although Dr. Maphis called on both the Antisaloon League and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for a speaker.

When Mr. Goolrick concluded his attack on the eighteenth amendment, Leroy Hodges, director of the round table, threw the conference open for discussion. For a few moments there was silence and then Hodges said, speaking to Mr. Goolrick:

"Senator, you seem to have exhausted the opposition."

Woman Volunteer Rises.

Immediately a woman arose in the back of the hall and said she could not allow the cause of prohibition to go undefended. For fifteen minutes she made a spirited speech in favor of the dry law, and said she regretted having no statistics to offer showing prohibition's economic effects.

Although asked several times by the chairman for her name, she said she preferred to remin the "unknown woman."

Mr. Goolrick told the institute that the South in abandoning its historic position on State's rights in favor of prohibition "exchanged its birthright for a mess of pottage." He termed prohibition a failure and challenged its supporters to produce evidence that the dry law had brought economic advantages to the South.

He enumerated four indexes by which the effect of prohibition might be judged, listing the increase in seizures by the Federal Government of stills and liquor; increase in arrests for drunkenness; increase in the alcoholic death rate and increase in alcoholic insanity.

Savings Deposits Argument.

The South will never turn to Communism or Socialism in the opinion of John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers and a speaker at the Institute of Public Affairs here today.

Mr. Edgerton and Franklin Waltman, jr., a Washington representative of the Baltimore Sun, were speakers on this morning's program. Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden delivered the principal address at the general meeting of the institute tonight.

R-100 FIN REPAIRS NEARLY COMPLETED

Commander and Major Are Sent Invitations to Visit Lakehurst.

TRANSOCEAN LINE SEEN

St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, Quebec., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Repairs to the stabilizing fin of the R-100 neared completion today and plans were under way for a short cruise to test the dirigible's airworthiness before she returns to England.

Passengers on the test flight will be confined to technical officers of the Department of National Defense and to the crew. Proposed trips to three Canadian cities were canceled because of atmospheric disturbances over Hudson Bay and the St. Lawrence Valley, and invitations for the flights were recalled.

Commander R. B. D. Colmore, director of the British airship development, and Maj. G. H. Scott, master of the R-100, received invitations to visit the United States naval airport at Lakehurst, N. J., next Saturday. They were in Ottawa with Sir Dennistoun Burney, designer of the R-100, to pay their respects to Lord Willingdon, governor general of Canada.

Sir Dennistoun called on members of the Canadian Club in Ottawa to form a committee to investigate the possibility of establishing an airship line between Great Britain and Canada. He agreed to place the proposition before the British government if support was forthcoming.

Events of the War 13 Years Ago Today

Six vessels were sunk by German submarines off Azores. Germans used bombs instead of torpedoes.

Overbaugh Denied F.H. Smith Receivedship

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Aug. 5.—Equity receivership action against the brokerage house of F. H. Smith & Co., formerly of Washington and now of New York, brought by Jerry W. and Emman Overbaugh, of Catskill, N. Y., in United States District Court here, was dismissed today by Judge Bondy when he sustained a motion made May 9 to dismiss the suit by counsel for the Smith Co.

In granting the motion, Judge Bondy did not enter into the merits of the case, but based his action on jurisdiction defects, holding that his court did not have proper jurisdiction in the matter.

The Overbaughs, it was learned today, may seek redress in a new action brought in the Delaware State courts or in the Federal courts of this district with amended complaint that would bring the case under jurisdiction.

COAST GUARDSMAN IS SLAIN BY PATROL

duty out of Base 7, Gloucester. Coast Guard officials did not divulge names of the crew. When the shooting was reported it was at first believed that the rumrunners were responsible. It was not until hours later that Capt. W. H. Munter, division commander, issued a statement from Boston headquarters revealing that one Coast Guard craft had fired upon another.

From the story told by Falkingham, Pratt went to his death while voluntarily going in search of a boat that had been afire yesterday. They left their station about 9 o'clock last night and after cruising around a while came upon a boat in the darkness.

"Thinking she might have been the boat we were looking for we approached her," Falkingham said. "When we were about 70 yards from her a hail of bullets greeted us.

"Pratt was up in the bow. He fell and cried to me that he had been hit.

"The shooting suddenly halted, and then two flares went up, after that there was no more shooting. Realizing Pratt's condition I headed for Ipswich as fast as I could."

Pratt was struck in the stomach by one of the bullets. The run from the scene of the shooting to Ipswich was about 4 miles. About twenty bullets struck the surfboat indicating that machine-gun fire had been turned on her. Coast Guard reports issued did not say whether a machine gun had been used or not.

District Commander L. R. Sands, of the Portsmouth, N. H., station, reported to Capt. Munter that "a searchlight was turned on the surfboat and followed by shots." It was extremely dark when the shooting occurred.

The New Ford De Luxe Phaeton

THIS car, newly added to the Ford line, has achieved distinguished favor because of its low, fleet lines, beautiful colors, and attractive sport treatment. The spirit of youth is reflected in its sprightly appearance and alert performance. To an unusual degree, it combines style and utility.

Among its pleasing features are an adjustable front seat, folding windshield and windshield wings of Triplex shatter-proof glass and a side fender well for the spare tire. Upholstery and trimming are in keeping with the latest mode. The rear quarter is slightly depressed below the belt to receive the top when down, thus preserving the straight flowing lines of the car.

The Rainbow's End is within Your reach

DID you ever feel so desperate you wanted to jump out of a window? That's the wrong end of the rainbow.

Ill health is a burden on body, mind and friends. But Nature never fails to signal her dangers. Lack of appetite, flabby flesh, loss of strength and skin troubles is a warning from Nature. This is her way of pleading for help.

The basic requirement for good health is rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Thousands of people have a low blood count—to this may be attributed "run down" systems, skin troubles, and even more serious ailments.

When S.S.S. is indicated in your case you owe it to yourself and friends to try it.

A CLEAR SKIN COMES FROM WITHIN

If you desire firm flesh, a glowing complexion, energy, vitality and the blessings of health you must keep your blood in good condition.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It gives to Nature what it needs to build you up so that your system may throw off the cause.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years. All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

STEEL MERGER FOES CLIMAX COURT FIGHT

Auditor Testifies 548,000 More Bethlehem Shares Were Called For.

PAIR OF REPORTS DIFFER

Youngstown, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The terms of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube-Bethlehem Steel Corporation merger should have called for 548,000 more shares of Bethlehem than the Youngstown stockholders actually were allowed, or $46,100,000 more in financial value, according to current market quotations, Hassell Tippit, of the Cleveland auditing firm of Ernst & Ernst, testified today. With Mr. Tippit's presentation of the Ernst & Ernst audit, made for the antimerger forces at the direction of Common Pleas Judge David Jenkins, the Cyrus S. Eaton interests reached the climax of the hearing of their suit to block the merger.

The report of Price Waterhouse & Co., whose audit was used by the Sheet & Tube directors in negotiating merger terms of one and a third shares of Bethlehem for one share of Youngstown is considerably at variance with the Ernst & Ernst conclusions.

Price Waterhouse recommended an exchange ratio of 1.203 shares, but in the merger negotiations the Youngstown directors succeeded in getting this boosted to 1.333 and then ratified it.

Mr. Tippit testified his firm found that the rate of exchange as made in the audit should have been 1.66 and with that added by negotiation should have been 1.79. On that basis, Mr. Tippit testified, the Sheet & Tube stockholders were entitled to 2,148,000 shares of Bethlehem common instead of the 1,600,000 shares received.

The current market value of the additional stock was estimated at $46,100,000, and, as of April 8, the date stockholders approved the merger, the value was estimated at $60,280,000.

The Ernst & Ernst audit, Tippit testified, figured Bethlehem's earnings at approximately $17,000,000 less than the Price, Waterhouse figures. The latter firm computed the adjusted earnings at $51,134,031. The Ernst & Ernst conclusion was $34,203,413.

Maintenance and repair, depreciation, values of certain stocks, computations of earnings and one adjustment after another comprised the testimony.

In two large items the Ernst & Ernst audit reduced the estimate of Bethlehem's earnings as compared with the Price, Waterhouse report. The largest of these, Mr. Tippit testified, was in the amount credited by the 1929 Bethlehem statement to 700,000 shares of Bethlehem common valued at $70,000,000.

Man, Wife Held in Rum Swoop Near Navy Yard

A man and his wife were arrested yesterday when Sergt. Leach's vice squad raided a near-beer saloon near the navy yard. Several quarts of alleged peach brandy were seized. Frank Boonis, 54 years old, and his wife, Becky, 48, were charged at the Fifth Precinct with violation of the prohibition law. Both of them live at the place where the raid was made —on Eighth street, near I street southeast.

The man was charged with sale, possession and maintaining a nuisance. The woman was booked for possession and maintaining a nuisance. Both were released on $1,500 bond.

Strong Quakes Cause Panic in Lima, Peru

Lima, Peru, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Strong earth tremors were felt here at 12:40 p. m. today. No damage was caused, buf the populace became panic-stricken and scurried to streets, squares and open spaces.

For the last few days seismographs have been registering earth shocks of varying intensity whose epicenter was estimated to be a long way off.

BASEBALL RIVALRY CAUSES RACE RIOT

ments of police to arrive, and were herded back to the cell blocks.

First reports indicated sixteen Negroes and two white men had been injured. The extent of their injuries had not been determined.

The immediate cause of the flare-up was what the white prisoners charge was the habit of the Negroes of hogging the baseball diamond on the recreation field during the entire two hours of the play period.

Each night as soon as supper is finished, the disgruntled men claim, the Negroes make a quick rush for the baseball apparatus and the diamond. The balls, bats, gloves, &c., are bought by the prisoners out of a common fund, and the white prisoners were not hesitant about expressing their objection to the manner in which the Negroes monopolize this equipment. While one group of Negroes raids the apparatus, it was alleged, another makes a dash for the diamond and establishes itself there. The Negroes then play baseball for two hours, refusing to give the white men a chance at the game.

Muttered threats by the whites over the situation have been heard recently, it is said, and last night there was an incipient riot, which guards succeeded in overcoming before it reached violence.

Tonight, apparently, the objectors were determined to square themselves before interference could step them. No sooner had the Negroes got on the ball field than groups of white men dashed out after them. A moment later the battle was in full swing, with some 100 men, in five different groups, fighting it out with fists or such implements as came to hand. A few, apparently forewarned, had armed themselves with kitchen knives.

The guards, unprepared for the venomous fury suddenly let loose, stood by helplessly for a few minutes. A quick call was sent to the city fire company maintained on the island, and the firemen came ready to keep the rioters in check with the streams of water if necessary. Four police emergency squads and reserves from several stations were soon speeding toward the island.

The first detachment of police reached the penitentiary five minutes after the trouble started, and five minutes later, with the aid of the penitentiary guards, separated the combatants and marshaled the prisoners back to their cells. No shots were fired, Warden Joseph A. McCann said, and none of the violence was directed toward the keepers. It was not necessary to use either the hose lines of the fire company or the tear bombs of the emergency squads to restore order.

NEW HIGHWAY PLAN WINS ANNE ARUNDEL

PLEA IS MADE BY 300

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 5.—Three hundred members of the Lanham-Severn Road Association which is seeking construction of a highway from Lanham in Prince Georges County to Stewarts Corner, in Anne Arundel, appeared before the Anne Arundel county board of commissioners this afternoon, and won the favor of the board.

No definite action can be taken at this time, however, as a new board of commissioners will be elected within the next three months. President Elmere Parkinson, of the commissioners, said he favored building the 18-mile highway, between the two points.

"I realize good roads are the main reason why persons have come from all sections of the country to settle along this county's beautiful 525 miles water front. I agree that this new road should be built and our board will leave a recommendation that our successors to be named in November take the project up for consideration," Parkinson added.

Hearing in Courtroom.

Because of the size of the delegation the hearing was held in the courtroom of the circuit court. Every seat was taken by the petitioners who came here in a caravan of 70 automobiles this morning. They put the same proposal before the Prince Georges County Board, and presented a petition signed by 1,600 residents of the section seeking the new road.

The principal speaker was Thomas H. Littlepage, of Bowie, who presented a romantic story of the advantage of good roads. He told of the inspiration a road such as proposed would prove to the communities within the planned route. He also pointed out how many communities have decayed through lack of good roads. He estimated that the cost would be between $500,000 and $750,000 to be divided between Anne Arundel and Prince Georges Counties. Herbert H. Teed, of Anne Arundel County, and R. Lee Vanhorn, president of the association launching the drive, made brief addresses.

Committee of 24 Named.

The proposed road, which would run in the general direction of Glenburnie, would connect with the Defense highway at Lanham's and would be another route between Baltimore and Washington, thereby relieving traffic on the main artery. A committee of 24 members, 3 from each of the small towns in the area, has been named to keep the issue alive until the commissioners of both counties can act. Prince Georges body could not take action, for that board is about to go out of office, as under the law its members can not succeed themselves.

Hynesboro, Seabrook, Glendale, Springfield, Bowie, Arundel, Patuxent and Odenton and their environs are on the route of the proposed highway.

Alleged Horse Thief Confined to Asylum

Lynn, Mass., Aug. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.). The first alleged horse thief in many years to appear before an Essex County court was arraigned today, Phillip Longford being charged, at Amesbury, wh taking a saddle horse belonging to James and Jewell Woodson, of that town. Longford's case was continued for one week. In the meantime, he will be confined at the asylum for insane at Danvers for observation.

He is a former employe of the Woodsons, who early yesterday found the barn door open and a horse and saddle missing. The brothers picked up the trail of hoof prints, got into a motor car and caught up with horse and rider in Hempstead, N. H., 40 miles away.

WIFE OF PRESIDENT CHRISTENS VESSEL

Mrs. Hoover Breaks Bottle of Spring Water on Prow of Liner Excalibur.

NEW SEA ERA FORESEEN

Camden, N. J., Aug. 5 (A. P.).—Hailed as the beginning of the upbuilding of the permanent American Merchant Marine, the steamship Excalibur, built for the American Export Steamship Co., was launched at the New York Shibuilding Co. yard today and was christened by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President.

The new ship, one of four to be built by the company, will operate in the passenger and freight service between New York and Mediterranean ports.

It was the third time that the wife of a President of the United States has journeyed to the Delaware River to sponsor a ship. Mrs. Grover Cleveland christened the St. Paul at the Cramps Ship Yard in Philadelphia, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson sponsored the Quistonck, the first ship launched at the Hog Island wartime ship yard, just 12 years ago today.

Carrying a huge bunch of American Beauty roses, Mrs. Hoover was met by officers of the steamship and shipbuilding companies. When the signal was given just at the moment the ship began to recede, the First Lady of the Land crashed the traditional beribboned bottle of spring water against the hull and called the ship the Excalibur.

A crowd of more than 1,000 persons witnessed the launching among whom was a large number of workmen.

At the luncheon at the Hotel Walt Whitman following the launching, Mrs. Hoover received a diamond pin as a souvenir of the occasion. Acknowledging the gift, Mrs. Hoover said she received a great thrill when she christened the ship and saw the immense hull gracefully slide into the Delaware River.

Trio Burned to Death, Fourth Hurt in Blast

Stamford, Conn., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Three men were burned to death and another badly injured in an explosion and fire today at the plant of Richards & Co., chemists. The fire loss was estimated at $35,000.

The victims were workmen. The explosion was caused, it is believed, by static electricity igniting alcohol fumes in the dehydrating department of the factory.

Two Soldiers Leap In Channel to Flee

Men Swim Through Strong Current in Escape From Martial Trial.

New York, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Two military prisoners awaiting court-martials for minor offenses, jumped from the sea wall on Governors Island today and swam across Buttermilk Channel toward the Brooklyn shore.

The pair, Pvts. Edward R. Fowler and William Joostima, were working on the eastern side of the island without a guard. A sentry saw them drop their tools and plunge into the water. He ran to a telephone and notified headquarters and Brooklyn police. He could see no trace of the men when he returned.

The channel is between 400 and 500 yards wide at the spot where they attempted their swim, and when the tide is running, as it was when they jumped in, there is a strong current.

Four Drown or Missing When Ocean Boats Crash

Copenhagen, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Four men were drowned or missing and eleven were rescued today after a collision between the American freighter Chickasaw and the Swedish freighter Femern, off the Danish coast. The rescued men were taken aboard the salvage steamer Garm for Copenhagen.

While the American ship was only slightly damaged in the accident and later steamed toward Copenhagen under her own power, the Femern was sliced in two, the forepart sinking. The afterpart was taken in tow.

THE FARMER'S PLIGHT.

The sorry plight of the farmer seems destined to result in renewed demand that one or another of the several panaceas that have been advanced from time to time to cure all agricultural ills be adopted. The farm situation is nicely adjusted to serve political ends. The farmer believed when the agricultural marketing act became law that his position would be improved in short order, but as he approaches the end of another growing season he finds himself more desperately off than ever before. Politicians will not scruple to take advantage of his disquiet. The next session will witness an organized campaign for the adoption of the equalization fee, the debenture or another of the panaceas.

Just how serious the farm situation is was outlined in a speech delivered yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde before the Midwest Retail Merchants Council at Kansas City. The world wheat acreage today, he said, is 42,000,000 acres larger than it was before the war. The American share of that increase is 14,000,000 acres or one-third of the total. The figures do not include Russia which, before the war, was the world's largest exporter of wheat. Production for the last seven years has outrun demand by an average of 43,000,000 bushels annually. The world carryover mounted from 272,000,000 bushels on July 1, 1926, to a total of 489,000,000 bushels on July 1, 1930, of which the American carryover on the latter date was 265,000,000 bushels. Increased acreage and increased production have made cumulative additions to both the American and world carryovers. As a natural and inevitable result, said Mr. Hyde, prices have fallen to ruinous levels.

There is but one solution to the farm problem. It involves limitation of production. The debenture or the equalization fee would not solve the problem. Both involve the dumping of the surplus abroad which would be checkmated by the imposition of antidumping tariffs by foreign governments, and both are, in effect, a form of subsidy the effect of which inevitably would be to stimulate production. Nor would the purchase by the Farm Board of a huge stock of wheat improve the price level. Such a course would not reduce the visible supply but it would gather into one mass a vast amount of wheat which, always present, would hang as a deadweight over the market and prevent a free rise in prices. Solution of the problem lies in curtailing production until the agricultural industry gets itself on a domestic basis, whereupon the generous tariff schedules applying to agricultural commodities would take effect. Scientific methods should not be abandoned nor machinery scrapped, said Secretary Hyde. The supply that is needed should be produced as cheaply as possible and if this be done the farmer will be able to end the year with a profit.

But how is acreage curtailment to be attained? Wheat growers are opposed to blanket acreage reduction. Everywhere the farmers who are willing to lend a receptive ear to the proposal in theory are inclined to let the other fellow do the actual limiting. A good case may be made out against the proposal of blanket reduction. Secretary Hyde himself says that the supply that is needed should be produced as cheaply as possible, which is the same thing as saying that the efficient producer should be allowed to continue planting his existing acreage while the inefficient producer should be forced to the wall. But the Farm Board is not proceeding along these lines. It suggests blanket reduction and this would penalize the efficient along with the inefficient producer. Even if a program of selective reduction were agreed upon and the inefficient farmer were forced to quit, would not the problem of what to do with those forced off the farms be as serious as the present problem of what to do with the excess wheat production? Would industry be able to absorb them?

The farm problem is an enigma. There is a way out, but it is by no means certain that the Farm Board will be able to lead the American farmer toward it. Under any circumstance the Government can do no more than lead the farmer toward the solution of his problem. His prosperity to no less an extent than the prosperity of the automobile manufacturer or any other industrialist depends upon his recognition of fundamental economic law and the adjustment of his business so that such law will assist, rather than thwart him.

COMMUNISM IN CHINA.

The sinister hand that is reducing cities of the Yangtze Valley to ashes is beginning to be exposed. Reports from Hankow say that after the population of Changsha was either driven out, subdued or slaughtered, and the torch had been applied to the city, a Soviet government was established there. The Communists have gained control over portions of Kiangsi, Hunan and Hupeh provinces and are evidently trying to establish a regime patterned after that at Moscow.

China has been the most fertile field for the propaganda of the Third International, which is controlled by the same clique that has Russia in its grip. China and the Soviets came to the verge of war last year over Communist activities in the former country. But the Nationalist government has been too weak to expel the Moscow agitators. They have taken advantage of China's distress to sow the seeds of world revolution. Now that the Nationalist government is sorely pressed by a rebellion in the north, the Communists are attempting to stampede China into bolshevism.

Communism has gained a strong foothold because the people have been unable to repel it. The reds have organized formidable armies, taking the deserters from the regular troops and most of the bandits of the country. Thousands have turned Communist to save their lives, and to secure, through brigandage, a sustenance that was otherwise lacking.

The brand of Moscow is distinctly impressed on this appalling campaign. The persecution of wealthy Chinese, the slaughter of 100 men seized for ransom and similar incidents give the movement a peculiar Russian flavor. These means of establishing the proletariat dictatorship are well known in Moscow. To see them now applied to another country will no doubt bring keen satisfaction to Stalin and his companions.

While the Nationalist government is not to blame for this outrageous Communist invasion, it can not escape criticism for leaving the Yangtze Valley unprotected against the red hordes. Efforts are now being made to quell the reds but they are pressing on to the cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanhang and may gain control of the whole valley. Unless their progress is stopped, all China will be in peril.

The slaughter and rapine that is being inflicted on China serves as a warning to every nation that gives the Communists a free hand. Communism takes root when a people is in despair, in spite of the general hatred of mankind for its tenets. Unless China is able to shake off this attack the future of the country is hopeless. It is a pity that the antagonistic ambitions of the war lords leaves the way open for this insidious invasion. Will not the northern and southern factions find it wisdom to draw up a truce and turn their guns on their common foe?

GIRDLING THE GLOBE.

John Henry Mears ran into misfortune at the very start of his projected aerial jaunt around the world. Together with his pilot, Henry N. Brown, he flew from New York to Newfoundland last Saturday. Early the following morning his ship was wrecked in an attempted take-off for the transatlantic hop to Ireland. Mears and Brown were uninjured, but the plane is a total loss and the record for globe circumnavigation remains with the Graf Zeppelin. Meanwhile, Ted Lundgren, Hollywood aviator and former Army instructor, has put weeks of secret preparation behind and is now ready to take off on a globe-girdling journey that will bring him back to his starting point if all goes well in a little over two weeks.

There is always something fascinating in round-the-world trips. Except for Wilbur Glenn Voliva and his band of faithful followers, no one these days doubt that the earth is spherical, but there is, nevertheless, something strangely fascinating in a journey ever eastward that eventually ends up at its starting point. This fascination, together with the interest that attends demonstration of the high speeds that are possible over long distances in the airplane, explains why men are willing to risk their lives in such futile undertakings. The accident that befel the Mears plane gives evidence of the danger that attends such a flight.

John Henry Mears announces that he will try again. By the time he has another plane ready the record mark may be shattered several times. Certainly no one will contend that a record that will stand for long will be set in the near future. The possibilities of aircraft speed and endurance have only been tentatively explored. The day may arrive when world circumnavigations can be measured in hours instead of in days.

MOTORIZED POLICE.

Commissioner Crosby plans as an experiment to motorize the Second Police Precinct. Policemen who now patrol the area afoot will cruise around it in automobiles, two men to a machine. In some of the outlying precincts a modified form of this plan already is in effect. The novelty of Commissioner Crosby's proposal lies in the fact that he would do away with foot patrolmen entirely.

In every field of activity the emphasis today is on mechanization. The Army is experimenting with motorized infantry and cavalry units and finds that mechanization adds considerably to mobility. The question arises, however, as to whether there are not some functions that can better be assumed by the conventional infantry or cavalry unit. This question will presumably be answered by experience with the experimental forces and the similar question that arises with respect to police department motorization will also have to be answered by experience.

The primary function of a policeman should be to prevent crime rather than to apprehend lawbreakers. Would a motorized policeman or a foot patrolman be in a better position to prevent the commission of crime? Certainly the knowledge that a policeman is somewhere about goes far to deter would-be criminals and it would seem that the man in an automobile would be able to cover much more territory than the man afoot. On the other hand, the foot patrolman comes into intimate contact with persons on his beat. He is in a position to perform various services and is able to gather intimate information that frequently proves most valuable. Would the motorization of a force destroy or weaken these contacts?

Under any circumstance the police cars should be painted a distinctive color. Policemen should not be used as spies. It is their function to patrol the streets in plain view. The automobiles should not be used to camouflage their presence.

FIGHTING CHIEFS.

Two fighting men were selected by President Hoover to command the United States Army and the United States Marine Corps. Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chosen as chief of staff of the Army, is a brilliant and gallant soldier, and Brig. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, picked as commandant of the Marine Corps, is an outstanding soldier of the sea. Both men are well known in Washington.

Gen. MacArthur, son of the late Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, and the grandson of Chief Justice MacArthur, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, is the youngest major general in the Army. This fact, together with his record, led to his selection. He was the only major general young enough to serve the full four-year term as chief of staff, the others all being scheduled for retirement within a year and a half.

As commander of the Forty-second Division, the Eighty-fourth Infantry Brigade and the crack Rainbow Division, Gen. MacArthur took part in many important engagements in the World War, including the Aisne-Marne defensive and the Meuse-Argonne defensive. A fighting general in every sense of the word, he was twice wounded in the field, and came back laden with decorations.

Gen. Fuller had smelled gunpowder before Gen. MacArthur had been graduated from the Military Academy. He participated in the Philippine insurrection, and in July, 1900, was commended for gallant action in the Battle of Tientsin, China. The years that followed saw him in Honolulu, Santo Domingo, Haiti, in various stations in this country, and with the fleet. He himself did not get to the front in the World War, but his son, Capt. Ted Fuller, U. S. M. C., was killed in action at Belleau Wood.

The two men may be expected to uphold all the glorious traditions of the fighting services they will now command.

CITY OF SEVEN MILLION

From the Boston Transcript.

That New York is a city of 7,000,000 inhabitants, or will be before August is past, is entirely probable. Revised figures of the Census Bureau place the population as of April 1 at 6,959,195. For the past decade growth has been at the rate of 357 a day. On this basis, Health Commissioner Wynne has predicted that the 7,000,000 mark would be reached August 10.

The figure will appeal to local pride. But New York is more than the city of 7,000,000. It is the city of dreadful noise, as witness present efforts to diminish the hubbub of discordant sounds. To be the city of 7,000,000 involves being the city of suffocating subways where humanity is shuttled back and forth in a manner from which the law protects cattle, sheep and swine on their travels. Yet in all fairness let it be added that there are opportunities open to the 7,000,000 not to be found in the town of 7,000. If great size has its drawbacks, it has also its compensations.

In the territory included in the five boroughs that now constitute New York, the inhabitants exceeded 1,000,000 as early as 1860, but it was not until 1880 that the census revealed a population of that size within the city as it was. The New York which took pride in its first 1,000,000 half a century ago was still far from being the world's largest city. Now, 50 years after, when census figures are published, the first question that arises is that of the relative size of New York and London.

Much depends upon how the comparison is made. If London is considered as the area administered by the county council, it includes 117 square miles which in 1921 had a population of 4,483,249. But the ordinary and obviously the more nearly accurate method of stating the population of the city is to make it include the 693 square miles under the jurisdiction of the metropolitan and city police forces. So considered, London in 1921 had a population of 7,480,201. Comparison on this basis makes London larger than New York with its 7,000,000, but it is a comparison with a city more than twice the area of New York, whose five boroughs include a total of only 308 square miles.

There is still further comparison, and one that accords with modern conditions and ideas. Comparison of this kind treats the city as the center of a single urban community, including far-spreading suburbs and neighboring cities. Boston is peculiarly in position to recognize the wisdom of thinking of the city as extending beyond its municipal limits. As between New York and London, if comparison is made between metropolitan areas, New York, very likely, is in the first place. The population of the London metropolitan area in 1921 was 9,610,484. The population of the New York area, including, of course, tributary cities and other communities in New Jersey and Connecticut, was estimated in 1926 to be 9,472,500. It is entirely possible that New York's metropolitant district has overtaken London's. If that be true, the American city is the center of the world's greatest urban community. Considered in this larger aspect, New York becomes a city of 10,000,000 instead of 7,000,000.

GIVE WASHINGTON A CHANCE.

President Hoover entertained the Commissioners of the District of Columbia at his Rapidan camp over a recent Sunday, and the story comes forth that he contemplates asking Congress to extend the powers of the Commissioners. It is to be hoped that this is true, comments the Boston Transcript, and that Congress will accede to the request.

Mr. Hoover is one of the few Presidents who have evinced more than a perfunctory interest in the welfare of material Washington. William H. Taft, as Solicitor General, was instrumental in developing Rock Creek Park, and as President he was ever responsive to District needs. Roosevelt put through the plan whereby the flats of the Potomac were made over into beautiful Potomac Park. But, as no President can give much time or thought to local matters, so, by the same token, Congress can not give due attention to this magnificent city of almost 500,000 inhabitants. It is a cruel anomaly; and Congress is trying incessantly to cut down the Federal appropriations for the District while at the same time clinging jealously to powers which it has neither the time nor the inclination to exercise properly. We trust that Mr. Hoover will be able to broaden the powers of the Commissioners; at least to free them from restrictions which no board of selectmen would tolerate in any town in the country.

LIFE'S GIFTS.

Good food, good friends, good fires,
The sum of man's desires:
And grant him health for all these three,
His days and nights will happy be.

A blazing fire when winds blow cold;
A larder stocked with all 'twill hold,
Good friends within—then lock the door,
The world outside can give no more.

Upon this changing earth below
Beyond these four no man can go;
With these all triumph starts and ends—

That man is poor with all his wealth
Who lacks the precious gift of health,
Or having fire and food and wine,
Sits down alone to dream and dine.

To Keep an Orchard Bearing, You Must Keep on Planting Trees

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE greatest of English geologists came to America in 1846 and spent some weeks making notes in the South.

In Alabama he learned that many of the planters were selling out and moving to new lands in the West.

The old farmer who was his host expressed a desire to join the migration and the great geologist said: "You seem well fixed here. Why do you wish to leave?"

"My neighbors have gone," said the old man, "and life isn't what it used to be. I'd like to sell out and follow them."

He had learned the lesson that only age and loneliness can teach.

In youth and middle age we spend our energy to win money and reputation, and because these things occupy our thoughts most of the time we learn to think of them as the source of happiness.

But as the years advance and those we love are taken away we learn too late how little value there is in the prizes men strive for.

All that we have we would gladly give for "the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still."

We learn that wealth is worthless if there is no comrade to share it; that fame is a hollow mockery without dear companions to rejoice in our winning it; that all prizes are worthless if there are no friends to share them.

Then life has lost its savor and our sad hearts long for the time when we can move on to join those who left us behind.

Not all the prizes life has to offer can compensate for the loss of one tried and true comrade, and winning itself becomes a sorrow when there is no one left to share the pleasure of it.

Get money and fame if you will, but first and always get friends.

The old friends are best, it is true, but to depend on them alone and close your heart to others is to doom yourself to live in an empty world when they are gone.

There will be no harvest next year if you depend on last year's planting.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE SUMMER VACATIONISTS' RELIEF FUND.

Today inaugurates the 1930 Summer Vacationists' Relief Fund, now in its third year and with more work cut out for it than ever before. The purpose of this fund, as most readers know, is to bring succor to thousands of vacationists suffering at summer resorts. Their condition is more pathetic than ever this year, due to lack of shade, poor food, defective ventilation and one thing and another. Unless brought back to the comparative comfort and coolness of their city homes at once, many of them will suffer excessively.

* * * *

This season the plight of summer vacationists is more heart-breaking than ever, largely because of economic conditions. Summer hotel proprietors have retrenched more than ever, it seems, with the result that these establishments are about as low in the scale of comfort as they can get. Whereas in other more prosperous years a hotel proprietor would mend the porch rail so a guest could lean on it without being pitched into the yard, and put a comfortable chair or two in the lobby, nothing of that nature has been done this summer. In fact, letters from suffering vacationists reveal that in some hotels there are no chairs at all. The few on hand when the season opened collapsed the first time anybody sat in them and the management refuses to make replacements.

* * * *

Economy in the operation of summer hotel kitchens is reported to have gone the limit and many vacationists are reported near starvation. The following letter is typical of many:

Fund for Relief of Summer Vacationists:

Dear Sir: I sincerely trust the fund will repeat its splendid work of former summers this season. You have no idea of the pitiful plight of persons caught in many so-called shore resort hotels and boarding houses just now. My husband and I and the two children came to this place a week ago. It was advertised as a de luxe hotel on the ocean-front, but it is a mile and a half from the nearest water, which is nothing but a creek.

We are being charged $32 a day for two little rooms in the attic, overlooking a public garage. The place is stifling. We have to carry drinking water from a well 200 yards away from the hotel. The menu consists almost entirely of stewed prunes, steamed clams, corn fritters, blueberry pie and bad coffee. Unless we are rescued at once it may be too late.

A MOTHER.

* * * *

Are you not touched by this communication? Do you not feel the urge to aid without delay? Send in your contribution now. Remember there are thousands of your fellow beings suffering on summer vacations. Unless food is sent to some of them they will perish. It is your duty to help succor these unfortunate fellow beings and provide funds to bring them back to their homes and their jobs, the only places where they can find real comfort and satisfaction, after all.

* * * *

It will not cost as much per head to bring summer vacationists home this year as in the past, due to the changed financial situation. This summer it will be possible to bring back one adult for $8 or four for $30. We hope to handle children at the rate of $4 each or four for $15. Think of the great army of sweltering, hungry, nerve-shattered vacationists undergoing all the miseries of life at inadequate shore hotels and sitting there waiting and watching for signs of relief! Let your heart go out to these poor people. Send in your donation today.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Property Owner Protests Against All-Night Parking and Pleads That the Nuisance Be Properly Dealt With.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Replying to a letter in The Post of August 4, regarding a proposed night parking ban, it seems to me that the property owner whose front entrance is affected should have some voice in the matter. Civil rights and privileges are relative when property values are concerned. Restrictions are necessary when selfish and inconsiderate persons disregard the property rights of others. Our whole civil government, from the Constitution to the necessary traffic laws, involves an extended contract to which every right-minded citizen is subject.

Your correspondent objects to a night parking ban, because he thinks it would affect the sale of autos. Let him consider a block about 400 feet in length on which are parked at least 20 automobiles every night. The front curb is occupied by somebody's auto. No consideration is given to the adjoining property owner. A night call to a physician or for a taxi requires such service to stop at times a block away. The roar of stopping, starting, backing, etc., of "parked" cars is often like that of an airplane, waking the slumber of peaceful, law-abiding people. Perhaps, if your correspondent owned a house on such a block, he would find its selling or trading value affected by too many noisy night-parking autos. They are worse than barking dogs. A good dog would have better sense than to park on or by a stranger's doorstep.

Let the authorities trim the sails of some of the whirlwind noise-makers and let the all-night parking privilege be modified. A public nuisance is what it is, even though it may be called a necessary evil.

Defense of the Pennsylvania Avenue Kiosk—Its Removal Would Not Make Any Difference in the Temperature.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I rush to the defense of the weather kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue, whose removal The Post asks for "maligning" Washington as a summer resort. It is surprising that The Post makes the demand, for it often enough quotes the information vouchsafed by the kiosk, without which no weather story would be perfect. In fact, its data are essential and more eagerly demanded by the public than the report of the Weather Bureau, which is generally interpreted as being too much removed from actual weather experience of the people in Washington.

We can not do without the kiosk. It is an essential. The truth must be had at all costs. When we are roasting we want to know under what degree of heat we are suffering. The figures from the Weather Bureau may be accurate enough in so far as they apply to the airy regions which are not within our ken, but those from the kiosk include the heat which is generated upward from the pavements and the walls of the buildings, plus unshaded sunshine. That is the heat the man in the street feels.

Can anybody or anything traduce Washington as a summer resort? It is impossible. The town speaks for itself. It is known for what it is from one end of the Nation to the other. Even the local weather man will tell you from his table of temperatures of the cities of the country that Washington is hot during certain seasons. Removing the kiosk is not going to make Washington any cooler or improve its reputation as a desirable town in which to live.

Member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science Disputes the Torrenson Claim of Discovering a Belt of Oxygen-Free Water.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A molecule of water consists of two atoms of hydrogen linked together by oxygen, thus: H-O-H. Such being the fact, as a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, I can not concur with Mr. O. W. Torrenson in his recent radio address, under the auspices of said association, to the effect that a belt of death in the southern Pacific was discovered by the Carnegie nonmagnetic ship on her last cruise, in which the water contained no oxygen. The liquid found, which he claims was water without oxygen, was evidently petroleum, which, in chemistry, is classified as a hydrocarbon.

In Webster's "New World Dictionary" petroleum is defined to be "An inflammable, dark, yellowish-brown, bituminous liquid issuing from the earth; mineral oil; natural oil; it yields several valuable volatile distillates, as paraffin, kerosene, benzine, naphtha, gasoline, &c."

It goes without saying that any liquid or fluid that does not contain two atoms of hydrogen and one atom of oxygen to each molecule is surely not water. ROMULUS A. FOSTER.

The Municipal Swimming Pools of Other Cities Shame Washington for Not Having Provided Bathing Facilities for Her People.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Garden City, Kans., has a municipal swimming pool 345 feet in length and 200 feet in width, with a depth ranging from 18 inches to 9 feet, and Altoona, Pa., has a pool of cement 135 feet wide by 635 feet long that accommodates 3,000 persons, with free bathhouse facilities. Should not the Capital City of the greatest nation on earth provide a pool for the thousands of Government clerks, as well as others, who would so much enjoy swimming?

I was shocked that this subject was not brought up during the last Congress after the President so beautifully referred to his old swimming hole in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, during the last campaign. He said, "As an engineer I could do much to improve it," and all the millions who were listening in were aware of the fact that any suggestion from Congress for a pool for Washington would meet with his hearty approval.

Novel Written In Georgetown On Far East

Grace Zaring Stone's Book Will Appear in September.

THAT "East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet" is evidenced again in the vastly different contents of two books which recently have come from the pen of Mrs. Ellis Oswall Stone, or "Grace Zaring Stone" as she is known to the world of literature. At her delightful house in Georgetown the Washington writer, whom the Navy claims as its very own because she is the wife of Lieut. Comdr. Stone, Grace Zaring Stone has put the finishing touches upon a fascinating tale of the East, "The Bitter Tea of Gen. Yen," which will be published in September.

Presenting the mystery of the Orient in a background of unusual scenes Mrs. Stone has depicted a saga of Eastern life as observed during years of residence in China and other parts of the world washed by the China Seas where Commander Stone has been stationed. The theme of her story is the antithesis of her book, "The Heaven and Earth of Dona Elena," which treats of the Western World, a story of San Juan and its delightful environs in an historical motif of Spanish America several centuries ago.

In Mrs. Stone's Georgetown house the East and West, however, offer equally rare treasures picked up in the quaint shops of distant lands.

Among her greatest possessions is a clay horse excavated in the ruins of an emperor's tomb of the Tang dynasty, which dates to the eighth or ninth century. Among other souvenirs of the Far East Mrs. Stone cherishes her Chinese hangings and pictures. Her collection of tapestries suggests the remarkable antique costumes which Mrs. George Barnett, widow of Maj. Gen. Barnett, one time commandant of the Marine Corps, brought back from China after a trip in the Orient when the general was in charge of the Marine Corps guard of the United States Legation.

Mrs. Barnett also has a collection of miniature silver and ivory ornaments which are very rare. In her house are many interesting articles from all parts of the world, gifts to Gen. Barnett from his officers.

Isabella M. Alden, Author, Succumbs

80-Year Career as Writer Under Name of "Pansy" Ended by Death.

Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Death today ended 80 years of writing for Isabella M. Alden, who gained fame as "Pansy," the pet name she signed over her first story when she was but 8 years old. This story appeared in a Gloversville, N. Y., newspaper.

During her long career Mrs. Alden wrote more than 120 books, the best known being the "Chautauqua," "Esther Reid," and "Life of Christ" series. She continued to write, although ill, duing the last four years and her last work was an autobiographical volume, "Memories of Yesterday."

The author's career really started when she was 17 and a pupil-teacher at Oneida (N. Y.) Seminary. Inspired by a prize offer for a book on principles of Christianity for children she wrote a story but was dissatisfied and buried it in her trunk. Three days before the competition closed a roommate, without the writer's knowledge, submitted it in the contest. The book, published under the title "Helen Lester," won the prize.

News on Birth of Child to Duchess of York to Come From Scottish Castle.

Glamis, Scotland, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The huge pile of gray stones which is Glamis Castle tonight held the secret that all England is waiting to hear—whether the Duchess of York, daughter-in-law of King George and Queen Mary, will present the country a new heir or an heiress to the throne.

The arrival tonight of the home secretary, J. R. Clynes, heightened the tension of this quiet Scottish countryside. Mr. Clynes, who will officially take note of the birth of the child which is in line for the British crown, is staying at Airlie Castle. This castle is the home of the Dowager Countess Airlie, lady in waiting to the queen. It is 8 miles from Glamis, and a speedy motor car has been prepared to carry the Chronicler of the historic event to Glamis Castle at a moment's notice.

Special arrangements have been made to send the news to the king and queen, who are on holiday aboard the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, in Cowes Roads.

Birkenhead Is Ill With Pneumonia

Condition of Earl, Visitor to U. S. Three Times, Held Serious.

London, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The Earl of Birkenhead, who as a lawyer and politician has been one of the leading figures in British life for many years, is seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia at his home in Grosvenor Gardens.

Physicians said tonight they had noted a slight improvement in the last 24 hours.

The earl, who is 58 years old, has been inactive since his return from Biarritz last April. While at the French resort he suffered a broken blood vessel and his condition for a time was serious. After his recovery and return to England he had gotten along fairly well until last week, when he developed a chill that was the forerunner of the bronchial pneumonia.

Born plain Frederick Edwin Smith, a poor boy, the earl won renown as a lawyer and was elevated to the nobility when he became lord chancellor. He also served as attorney general under David Lloyd George and later became secretary of state for India in the Stanley Baldwin cabinet from 1924 to 1928.

He has visited the United States three times—in 1917, in 1923 and in September of last year.

Millionaire's Son Dies In Cleveland Air Crash

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Joseph E. Kundtz, 26, son of Theodore Kundtz, millionaire Cleveland furniture manufacturer, was killed late today in an airplane crash near Cleveland Airport. He was said to have been piloting the plane.

Tremors Rock Town In Southern California

Ventura, Calif., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Residents of this community were awakened at 3:27 a. m. today by two earthquake shocks, which broke windows and cracked walls in several downtown buildings. The first quake, a mild one, was followed a second later by a severe shock which lasted for one minute.

The most serious damage was reported by the owners of the Palace Hotel, where plate glass windows were broken. The proprietor of an undertaking establishment said several lateral cracks appeared in his building. Santa Barbara reported a slight shock with no damage.

EMPLOYES INSURED BY NATIONAL DAIRY

$60,000,000 in Policies to Be Underwritten by Travellers Co.

B. & O. GETS NEW CARS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

National Dairy Products Corporation, local unit of which is Chestnut Farms Dairy, Inc., has announced that it has taken out group life, accident and sickness insurance involving $60,000,000 life insurance, and more than $500,000 weekly benefits for sickness and nonoccupational accidents for the 35,000 employes in its 150 subsidiaries throughout the United States.

This is said to be the largest group policy issued this year. Liberal benefits are provided, ranging upward from a minimum of $1,500 life insurance and $15 upward weekly sickness and accident benefits, depending on employes' earnings. The plan is cooperative and was underwritten by the Travellers Insurance Co., Hartford, Conn.

Nation-Wide Dairy Concern.

National Dairy is the first corporation to build a Nation-wide system of operating companies distributing milk and ice cream, and has subsidiaries in almost every State in the Union. Already the largest company in the dairy products industry, the recent acquisition of Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation brings its official 1930 estimated sales volume in excess of $400,000,000, or larger than any other company in its field and exceeded only by a few corporations selling direct to the public.

A special exhibition of radically different, distinctive and unique passenger train equipment which the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. is arranging to place in service, will be open to the public today on track No. 10, at Union Station, from 2 to 10 p. m.

The exhibit consists of an air-cooled diner, a club-lounge parlor car, or smoking and recreation car for men and women, rubber insulated trucks, reclining individual seats for overnight coach passengers to New York and new type individual seat coaches.

People's Light & Power Report.

People's Light & Power Corporation, a subsidiary of Tri-Utilities Corporation, has announced revenues for the year ended June 30, 1930, as $8,105,595, to compare with $7,407,818 for a similar period in 1929. It is pointed out in their report that revenues increased not only for the twelve months' period, but for each month of this year they have been greater than those of the corresponding months last year.

Construction is now going on to interconnect two of the company's subsidiaries, Eastern Minnesota Power Co. and Wisconsin-Hydro Electric Co., making possible the complete interchange of power over 1,300 miles of transmission and distribution lines in this area.

Clarence F. Norment, sr., chairman of the board, National Bank of Washington, will return from Atlantic City in about a week.

Thomas J. Mangan, jr., manager of the Washington office of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., has returned from Margate, N. J., where he visited his family, who are established there for the remainder of the summer.

Curb Review

New York, Aug. 5.—(A.P.)—Trading in today's curb market was notable primarily for the sluggishness of the utilities and the launching of a vigorous bull drive in Ford, Ltd.

Of the day's total turnover of only 391,900 shares, one of the year's smallest, 90,800 shares were in Ford, Ltd. or about 23 per cent of the day's activity in this market. The stock was bid up 4 points to a new high record at 22⅞, and closed at 22. The previous 1930 high was 19⅝. Last year the peak was 21⅞.

The utilities, usually the dominant group on this market, eased in sympathy with the group on the big board. In view of the fact that utilities are selling at relatively higher earnings ratios than most other groups, the prospect of substantial reductions in electric power rates has made traders hesitant. United Light A was again in fair demand, rising ¾ to 43, and closing at 42¼, but Electric Bond & Share, which usually dominates this group, lost 1 point, and American Superpower sagged a fraction. American Gas reacted 2 points, then rallied to close unchanged.

The move in Ford, Ltd., holding company for the European Ford companies, comes several days subsequent to unconfirmed reports that a leading investment trust, after a survey of the company's activities, had taken a large block of the stock for investment. The move in the stock is based primarily on its more distant rather than immediate prospects. Dividends of the stock are at the rate of 10 per cent of the par value of one pound sterling, or less than 50 cents annually.

The oil shares were mostly steady to firm, in sympathy with pool operations in Standard of New Jersey on the big board. Gulf rose more than a point, and Pacific Western, concerning which merger rumors have been rife, sold up fractionally to 16. Cities Service was fairly active, losing ⅛. Investment trusts were largely steady, although Chemical National Associates lost a point in realizing.

In addition to Ford, Rainbow Luminous was a firm feature in the largely neglected industrials. The Class A stock rallied more than 2 points to above 12, in fairly active trading. Deere and Anglo Chilean mounted a point.

Drought Reduces Food Shipments

Alabama, Georgia Furnish Bulk of Sweet Potato Supply, Report Says.

General drought and the resultant injury to agriculture was noted here yesterday in the curtailed shipments of various vegetables to the Washington produce market.

"Some slight recovery was made in Midwestern potato markets, but Eastern stock was slightly lower," according to a report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. "Daily average of watermelon shipments from all sources was around 750 cars in early August. Movement from Georgia was much lighter and the more northern sections of the Southeast were furnishing the bulk of the supply.

"Shipments of new sweet potatoes were less than 20 cars daily in early August, but were coming from a number of States. Alabama and Georgia were furnishing the bulk of the supply. City markets reported rather light supplies on hand and demand somewhat slow."

S. S. Kresge Co. reported July sales totaling $10,882,426, a decrease of 6.8 per cent from 11,686,639 for July last year. Sales for the first seven months this year totaled $78,340,038, a decrease of 1.2 per cent from $79,331,098 for the like period of 1929.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Steel ingot production for the past week averaged about 58 per cent, against 57.5 per cent for the two preceding weeks, Dow, Jones & Co. reports. At this time last year steel activities started downward, U. S. Steel Corporation reporting a drop of 2½ per cent to 93, with the independents down more than 1½ per cent to 91.

Unfilled orders of the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co. as of July 31 totaled $16,674,000, against $17,926,000 at the end of June and $14,896,719 July 31 last year.

Exports of raw sugar from Cuba for the first seven months of 1930 aggregated 1,459,808 tons, of which 848,829 tons were shipped to the United States and the balance to Europe, Canada and other ports, the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange reports. During the corresponding months last year Cuba exported 3,219,394 tons, of which 2,463,174 were shipped to the United States.

Plants of the Timken Roller Bearing Co. have resumed operations after a two-week vacation shutdown. The company is employing around 4,200 men in all plants, which are operating four days a week in most divisions and five days in a few departments, the same basis which has prevailed since October.

Cotton goods were irregular today following the decline in percales and early weakening in raw cotton. Raw silk consumption in July was ahead of June. Canton Crepes and some other heavy styles of fabrics are selling for fall. Novelties in topcoatings are being shown by a few mills. Tropicals in staple patterns are being ordered moderately. More business is anticipated on silk hosiery in consequence of low prices that will be maintained by mills having the advantage of a reduction in labor costs and low raw silk. Summer merchandise is being cleaned up well in retail houses due to prolonged heat.

Sales of the John R. Thompson Co. for the first six months of 1930 totaled $7,601,989, compared with $7,857,617 in 1929. Net income after all charges for the period was $583,037, against $675,828 for the first half of 1929.

Formation of a protective committee to represent bondholders of the Chicago, Springfield & St. Louis Railway Co. and the Jacksonville & Havana Railroad Co. was announced. George E. Warren, vice president of the Chase National Bank, is chairman of both committees. The mortgaged properties, formerly part of the lines of the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railroad Co. (of Illinois), are in the hands of a receiver and foreclosure suits are in progress.

The International Institute of Agriculture today reported its wheat forecast at 6,071,000 metric tons, as compared with 7,082,000 last year and a five-year average of 5,748,000. The rye forecast was 160,000, against 175,000; barley 250,500, compared with 282,700; oats 570,000, against 705,000. The wheat decrease is 14½ per cent.

HIDE IN THE DARK

By FRANCES NOYES HART

Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

Time: All-Hallows Eve.

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

Trudi, wise, witty and chic, with all the ease of manner of a grand duchess, and the lack of manners of a fishwife.

Gavin Dart, a rather tired and immensely successful business man of 50, with shrewd, dark eyes and steel-gray hair.

Ray Hardy, the youngest member of the party, not long married and overwhelmingly in love with

Joel Hardy, her charming and irresistible husband, who has not grown five minutes older in the last ten years.

Jill Leighton, graceful and gracious, stepsister of that legendary Sunny, the beloved girl whose strange death ten years ago still lay like a shadow over the gay group.

Kit Baird, wanderer and adventurer in strange lands, who in his casual way does every romantic thing magnificently well.

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Thirteen gay revelers, calling themselves the March Hares, have gathered on Halloween at Lady Court, an old manor house. As the party gets under way some one starts a xraphophone. The record is "Underneath the Stars." Sunny's tune. Sunny herself, whom every one loved, having been drowned in Washington.

Lindy, alone with Kit, confesses her love for him, while, in another part of the house Larry proclaims his love to Jill. Kit and Doug quarrel when Lindy, for the moment, objects to dancing with Kit. The situation is saved when Lindy relates a murder story about early relatives who lived at Lady Court.

Lindy peruses Kit again and tosses him about being jealous of Doug. Later, as she chants "Mirror, mirror, dark and bright • • •" Kit's face appears in the glass. She drops the mirror and it is broken. Doug is furious. Then Kit discovers a bridge has been washed out and the party is marooned. But the guests continue their Halloween games.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Trudi gave a final professional tweak and stood clear, her hands outstretched.

"Circle, every one! Circle, Larry! Make it wider—the child's likely to need air. Watch that clock, Sherry; don't forget that every minute gone means another year of single misery. Circle, children—she's off!"

"Swift, swift spins the magic ring,
As one more year to the gods you fling. • • •"

"Jill! Jill, for the love of Pete, snap out of it!" "The girl's bewitched." "What in——"

The circle wavered, checked, broke, as Larry Redmond swung across the interval between it and the girl at the table. "Jill, what is it? Don't darling, don't! Here, untie her hands, will you, some of you bright idiots? Jill——"

She wept through those racking and dissolving sobs, "Oh, Larry, I've spoiled it again! It was such a beautiful party, and I've spoiled it again. Lindy, I did try—I did, truly—I thought everything was so perfect and I meant not to. I thought if I just gritted my teeth and bent my head I could, but I kept seeing the ring—I kept seeing——"

She clung to Larry's sheltering arm, fast about her, trying to keep what she had seen far from her—trying in vain. There it stood on tiptoe in the candlelight—the mischievous truant from Eternity, all pearl and gold and starry laughter, with a wisp of drifting mist across its dancing eyes and a wisp of drifting flour across its tilted nose, so young, so sweet, so terribly, terribly alive. Some one in the broken circle sobbed suddenly and Sunny and her ring were gone.

Chatty cried, "Oh, Jill, we forgot. Darling, we forgot that it was Sunny's ring. It was my fault; I found it in with all those charms for the cake and I gave it to Lindy without stopping to think at all. Jill, please, please forgive us."

Lindy said, "We've been trying so hard to forget how much we loved her all evening, Jill. We won't try to pretend any more, darling. We'll put the foolish things away."

Jill, stilling the quivering face, cried, "No, no, don't punish me for being such a little fool. I love the games, Lindy—I love your party. Don't punish me by spoiling it."

Trudi, brushing ring and flour together into the blue bowl, commented with grim determination, "Well, here's one game we don't go on with. And, personally, now that I'm no longer whooping like a Pawnee Indian, I feel as though a good rubber of contract and a hot-water bag are about my speed for the evening. Stick this in the corner, Sherry, and haul out a couple of card tables. Grandma's ready to settle down for the night."

"Oh, Trudi, please!"

Lindy, pale and gracious, threw the desolate Jill her loveliest smile.

"But, darling, I do think Trudi's right. Let's all have a good game of cards—not bridge, that's much too stern and silent, but why don't we try poker?" She drew a long breath and said, still smiling, "Sunny never played that, so it won't have any unhappy memories at all. There are enough for two tables, aren't there?"

Hanna murmured apologetically, "Oh, children, I'm dreadfully sorry, but I'd simply wreck any poker game in the world. I never can remember whether flushes are all the same number or all the same color."

"Dice or Cards?"

"Oh, but Hanna, neither can I!" cried Ray, enraptured. "And I'm always wanting to bet my immortal soul on three pair."

Joel groaned fervently, "Three pair, great gods! Take her away from here before I do her violence. Give her some marbles and a kite——"

"Well, I can shoot craps better than almost any one," proffered Ray, flushed, but dauntless. "Couldn't we——"

Trudi swooped on the suggestion like a hawk. "Craps! Lead me to 'em! I've been wanting to shoot craps for six months. Wha dem bones? Chatty, you talk to 'em powerful pretty, too. Come on, Sheridan, find me a couple of bones. How about you and Larry, Jill?"

Jill asked in a small voice of desolation, "Lindy, aren't we going to have any more of the old games? I won't be such a little fool again, I promise. Aren't we going to have even Hide in the Dark? It won't be the March Hares unless we have one game of Hide in the Dark."

Lindy put swiftly consoling arms about her.

"Of course, we'll play it if you want, darling. We'll just fill in with this till 12 and the minute the clock strikes we'll forget everything in the world except that we're the only real March Hares in captivity. Trudi, you take your crap shooters off in the corner and all the children who are poker players gather 'round here. Doug, Joel, Kit, Gavin and me—you, too, Tom? That's six, isn't it? Heavens, am I the only lady? Now where in the world did I put those cards the last time we were here?"

Chatty, burrowing industriously in the closet by the fireplace, announced in muffled tones, "Here are the dice and some poker chips, but there isn't a single card. Didn't you take them back to town for bridge, Lindy? Or maybe we——"

Kit Baird said, "I think I stuck a pack or so into my bag last week. Shall I dash upstairs and see whether they're still there?"

"Oh, Kit, do! We'll be counting chips while you're gone."

Doug King, something dark moving across his blond, handsome face, lifted the highball glass to his lips, his eyes, curiously eager, following the red head as it disappeared in the shadows of the hall. When he put his glass down, it was empty and he was smiling.

At the Card Table.

Across the room Trudi's voice rose clear and fervent above the violent chatter of the kneeling circle. "Ah, babies, many's the day since we three got together. I'm askin' you sof' an' low, babies, be good to mamma. Come you seven! Seven——"

Gavin Dart, stacking the tricolored counters in neat piles, raised his voice over the waning invocations. "What's this famous game that we're to play at midnight, Lindy? A variation of Blindman's Buff?"

"Hide in the dark? It's just what it says—we hide in the dark. At least one of us does and the rest of us hunt."

"It's a grand game," commented Joel with a reminiscent grin that broadened to a chuckle. "Wait till the little helpmate hears about it! She'll fall flat on her face in a faint when she finds out how she's going to wind up the evening. Trudi—hey, Trudi, tell Ray what she has to do when she plays Hide in the Dark, will you?"

"And just what does she have to do?" Gavin Dart's voice was patience itself, enthroned on a monument.

"Oh, Gavin, I'm so sorry. It's this hideous way we all have of talking at once. It couldn't be simpler. When the clock strikes 12, we all race like mad to the hall at the top of the house—all but the Hider, that is—turning out the light behind us as we go—so that the house will be pitch black, you see. Then the timekeeper counts noses, to see we're all there, and strikes a gong on the landing. He allows five minutes for the Hider to find cover, and when time's up, he strikes the gong again as a warning that we're coming, and we're off. Every man for himself, and every lady, too! No one's allowed to say a word to any one else and as soon as each one discovers the Hider, he crawls into the same hiding place and keeps perfectly still. The last one to unearth the quarry is Hider the next time, and so on, da capo, till we drop in our tracks."

"And, boy, wait till you see the places they take to," adjured Joel. "Remember the time Trudi popped into the bathtub and pulled a sheet over her and no one found her for 2 hours and 35 minutes?"

"Death at Solitaire."

"It took longer than that to dig Hanna out of that dumb-waiter at the Randalls," Doug reminded him, tilting back in his chair with a broad grin. "She couldn't stand up straight for a week afterward and she had ten blisters working the ropes up and down five stories——"

Gavin, smiling appreciatively, said: "It sounds a most admirable game. Hanna in a dumb-waiter! I can hardly wait to get at it. If Baird doesn't find those cards perhaps we could just run through a practice game."

Kit's voice said from the shadows in the hall: "Sorry to disappoint you; they were there, all right. Better count 'em, Joel, while I join Mr. King in destroying this bottle of whisky. Or have you staked out an indefinite claim on it, Doug."

Doug, his teeth glittering under the narrow line of blond mustache, instantly pushed the bottle toward him, saying quite genially: "I'll count 'em; Joel's stacking the chips. Still keen on the cards, are you Kit?"

"Oh, not as keen as all that!" Kit detached the appraising eye that he was casting on the whisky and permitted it to linger on the flushed countenance thrust jovially toward him.

Doug ran the cards from one hand to the other in a long, expert ripple of crimson, the smile deepening. "But you still keep 'em handy on the train, just in case a game turns up?"

Kit put down the whisky very gently, and said more gently: "I'm going in for solitaire these days. I'm sure death at solitaire."

Under the casual voices there rang suddenly a cold and ominous sound—the distant ring of rapier on rapier. Lindy lifted startled eyes and dropped them more swiftly still. The gentle voice added: "Nothing like learning to play your own hand. I'll give you a lesson one of these days——"

"Thanks." The crimson ripple broke abruptly and Doug King reached for the whisky. "And while you're giving lessons, why not show me how you worked that hand in Panama?"

Joel cut sharply across the words, his voice, too, tempered as chilled steel. "When you get through playing with those cards, Doug, let the rest of us in on the game, will you? If you're done, we're ready to begin Are they all there?"

Doug said blandly: "Fifty-two to a pack entirely correct. Sorry to be such a bore with these ancient reminiscences. Cut for the deal, will you?"

Lindy, hunting with veiled and desperate eyes for the clew that had set the rapiers ringing, begged in her prettiest tone of cajolery: "Oh, Doug, before we start, do us some of the old tricks, won't you? It's been such ages since I've seen them! Do the butterfly one, or the Queen of Hearts."

Doug, shuffling with magic dexterity, shook his head, laughing.

"After that crack from Joel about holding up the game? Not on your life—not even for the Queen of Hearts herself. After everything's over, though, I'll stage a private exhibition for the queen's special benefit, while we're having that little talk you promised me."

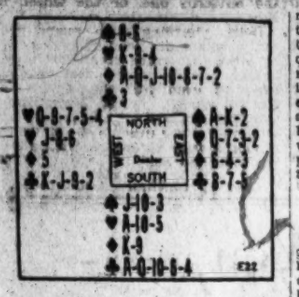
WORK ON BRIDGE



COULD YOU HAVE MADE MORE?

The above hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South bid one No Trump, West passed, North bid three Diamonds, and that ended the auction.

In Contract if any number of tables played the hand, there doubtless would be considerable diversity in the bidding. If South started with a No Trump, North would bid Diamonds and five Diamonds would become the eventual contract. A variation of this might be: South one No Trump, North five Diamonds; and still a third variation would occur if South should bid one Club. But it seems assured in any event North would be the Declarer playing a contract of five Diamonds; so the play in both games would be the same.

When the hand was played, East led three rounds of Spades, North ruffing the third. With two Spade tricks lost, Declarer appreciated that to make game he must take every other trick; and that while he need not lose a Diamond or a Club, he was in danger of losing a Heart. So after exhausting trumps, North led a Club and dummy's Queen was finessed. Had the finesse won, the Declarer would have gone game; but its loss produced the game-saving trick for the adversaries.

Could you have made more?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

The finesse that the Declarer took gave him an even chance for game, but he could have played the hand in a way which would have produced better than an even chance. In his two hands he had six Clubs; the adversaries had seven. The chances were much better than even that the seven Clubs were divided 4-3, or if 5-2 that the King would be one of the two; so as South had sufficient entries, the proper play would have been to try to establish a thirteenth Club.

To trick 4 North should have led a Club, winning with the Ace in dummy and returning the suit, ruffed high by closed hand. Trick 6, a trump from closed hand, won in dummy, and a third Club from dummy, again ruffed high in closed hand. Trick 8, a second trump won in dummy and the fourth Club ruffed by closed hand which would be followed by the drawing of the last adverse trump, after which dummy would be put in with the Ace of Hearts to cash his good Club, giving North the needed Heart discard.

New Radio Is Introduced To 15,000 Dealers at Once

Formerly it took from six weeks to two months to acquaint retailers with a new radio set, but last night by means of radio itself, the new Atwater Kent set was introduced to 15,000 dealers in 87 cities in an hour.

In Washington more than 300 dealers from Virginia, Maryland and the District assembled as the dinner guests of William E. O'Connor, president of the Southern Wholesalers, at the Hotel Mayflower, where they heard a special program broadcast from New York through one of the new models. A new march, "The Golden Voice," composed by Arthur Pryor, dedicated to the new set, was played for the first time.

A novel feature was the new quick vision dial, a wide, stationary illuminated arc, above which moved a pointer when the station selector knob was operated. The dial was graduated in kilocycle channels so that each division represented a division. This permitted the operator to pick out any station as easily as he would tell time by looking at the clock.

The new tone control provided four distinct shadings, permitting emphasis of bass or treble at will. It allowed the listener to strike his own tone balance between high and low and to adjust the tone to his individual taste. Static, it was said, will also be greatly reduced through this device.

Following the broadcast presentation, Mr. O'Connor, P. A. Ware, sales promotion manager of Atwater Kent, of Philadelphia; Francis C. Ferber, of the Southern Wholesalers, and others spoke. Mr. Ware declared that the saturation point of radio sales was not yet in sight due to the fact that 1,000,000 new purchasers were still being created each year.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Lovely, this little pink mousseline dress, trimmed with darker pink shirred taffeta. And a charming purple blue marquisette sleeveless dress with little cape. (Courtesy of Ardanse, Paris.)

Paris, Aug. 5.

CLOTHES do not make the woman—entirely. But, oh golly, how they help!

Every woman knows the HAPPINESS derived from being well dressed, the little feeling of assurance and gaiety or graciousness, as the case may be, that comes with the wearing of the perfect ensemble.

And why so many women are careless in their selection of clothes continues to be a mystery! Sometimes it is a subconscious indication of a deep-rooted fear that they do not know how to dress themselves properly, and sometimes it is mental laziness.

No matter upon what it is based, the woman who dresses carelessly is the real loser. You and I do not like to look at her, true. We resent her or ridicule her, according to our mentality; but when she is removed from our line of vision she no longer hurts us acutely by her carelessness. But she does hurt herself.

There is no argument whatsoever in favor of such carelessness. No matter how talented, how clever, how brilliant you may be, you are not as much so as you could be if you appreciated yourself to the extent of clothing those talents and individuality in the kind of garments the world expects, nay, demands.

Remembering above all else that the world demands good taste and harmony to the eye, not a lavished display of the world's goods.

* * * *

Ardanse loveliness speaks to us again in two beautiful dresses for two different types of figures. The one on the right of pink chiffon delicately trimmed with darker pink taffeta shirred, is ideal for the young woman, while the one on the left with its very gracious lines and of deep purple blue marquisette, is better suited to the tall slender woman. Baroness Ardanse knows, what too few couturiers know, and that is how to dress the different types of women without imposing her individual taste upon all of them.

* * * *

Do you want to hang your summer dresses up in the closet until next year, and run the risk of their either being out of style or you being tired of them, or do you want to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for our clever leaflet which tells you how to make them over right this minute into fall ensembles and winter dresses?

(As Sung in Newburg, N. Y.)

The Goofus Lobster thinks he would Like to move from the neighborhood.
The water's hot and also wet—
His children dare not go to fish,—
The neighbors have a chafing dish!
Well, he doesn't have to fret and pack,
His house, you see, is on his back!

What Today Means to You

"LEO."

IF August 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 5 a. m. to 6:30 a. m., and 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

All roads to happiness or success will seem to be blocked on this date, and there will be no detours indicated. Avoid travel, speculation and disputes! Beware of accidents! Active, but deceptive, and promises will not be realized.

The child born on this August 6 will have a very practical nature and will interest itself in the business of the world. It will be a better athlete than student. It will have an even temperament and will seldom quarrel. It will be fond of companionship.

You have a Titan personality, a "do or die" spirit. You consider the world your oyster, and you have the wit and sharpness to open it. From an early age you have had set ideas as to what you wish to do and what you wish to be. Your ambitions are not modest, but in the mathematics of life, courage plus knowledge makes success. You believe in yourself, but you do not exaggerate your capabilities, or try to overforce your personality. You are a firm advocate of preparedness, but never play the game of bluffing. You realize that a little knowledge is dangerous and you know your stuff thoroughly before you try to make practical use of it. You test your theories in proper laboratories before you try them out in the real world.

You are a man or woman of intensely human qualities. You are neither a snob nor a poseur. You are not vain, although you have more excuse for vanity than many vainer persons. You may be a bit of an advertiser, but you have the goods to advertise. You have the courage of your convictions, but your ideas are not set in concrete. You have the ability and courage openly to change—or develop—opinions. You will scoff at romance, until Cupid penetrates your heart with her arrow. You are not immune to the germ of love.

PROPER CARE OF FREEZIA BULBS.

ABOUT this time you should look after your freezia bulbs. Some readers may say "I haven't any." If that is so, let me urge you to purchase a handful as a beginning. If you do, next year you will likely purchase more.

A handful may seem like a small quantity, but when you consider that even so small a number may be sufficient for four pots, it sounds a bit more sensible. Florists always think of freezias in terms of handfuls, because they are so small and so different from other varieties of bulbs that are sold by the dozen or hundreds.

Freezias are about the cheapest of all bulbs and are easily raised, and they have such really delightful little blossoms that every flower lover should have them. Most books and growers tell you that this bulb is most highly esteemed for its fragrance. It is sweet and yet delicate, an odor of which one never tires.

The freezia is not a new variety of bulb, yet we do not see it as frequently in the window garden as we should like. It should be more common, for it increases rapidly from little bulblets. Where you have one pot this year, the natural increase will give you three next year. Last year many readers, after learning about freezia in this column, purchased bulbs and later on, when they came into bloom, wrote and told me how delighted they were with them.

As I said before, this is the time to look after bulbs of this variety. Those who already have a freezia supply know that they have been dormant and dry for some months. Now, being sufficiently rested, they should be taken out of the old earth and planted, especially those which are planted for early blooming, say in December. The rest of the bulbs you should lay away in a box or wrap in paper and start a month later.

When the bulbs have been started in fresh soil, stand them in the hot sun. The object of this is to prevent them from becoming tall and straggling. They have a tendency to do this, and we must do what we can to prevent it. If you start them under a tree or a porch, where they are shaded in the remotest way, they will grow very tall, the foliage will be too weak to support itself and from the outset they will have to be staked. The flowers will be puny and weak, and the entire plant a disappointment.

But give the plant an abundance of sunshine and they will be short and stocky, the stems self-supporting. The same holds true of the leaves, and the individual florets will also be perfectly developed. Each cluster will have four florets and one bud, which will develop later.

Freezias must be kept warm and well watered at all times. When you take them into the house, place them in a sunny window and see that they have plenty of fresh air. Just before they blossom you will find an application of liquid manure of great benefit.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATS TRENCH MOUTH.

DR. T. A. HARDGROVE makes this statement: "Vincent's angina is absolutely curable." This term includes what has been known as trench mouth.

The method of cure he uses is an application of chromic acid, followed immediately by an application of peroxide of hydrogen. The acid he uses as a 15 per cent solution in distilled water. This is painted on the infected areas and immediately thereafter the mouth is washed with some ordinary 3 per cent commercial peroxide. The mouth fluids immediately become blue-black. This is visual evidence of the right reaction. The mixture of chemicals causes the release in the mouth of oxygen in a most active state. After a little while the mouth is rinsed with plain water. The treatment is applied daily until the patch of trench mouth infection is in healthy condition and healing.

Dr. Hardgrove had had extensive experience with this treatment and is more than satisfied with it. The principle involved is that the organisms which cause this disease can not stand oxygen. The combination of remedies floods them with it in this most effective form.

The sodium biborate treatment advocated by Bloodgood is based on the same principle, but that remedy does not supply as much oxygen nor is it as searching or as killing as is the oxygen produced by the combination of chromic acid and peroxide.

In the discussion of Dr. Hardgrove's paper it was evident that more than one disorder is going by the name of Vincent's angina, or trench mouth. Some dentists are encountering milder infections and others more severe ones. Some cases called Vincent's angina, or trench mouth, are really cases of pyorrhea. Meanwhile, keeping the mouth clean is the best preventive. For this purpose Reasoner recommends soap washes. The tooth pastes which he prefers are those which make a good deal of soapsuds—flavored and perfumed, but still soapsuds.

NOT ALWAYS SERIOUS MATTER.

S. F. writes: Although our city is not in the goiter belt, many of our girls have goiter. I am told this disorder is due to iodin deficiency. What can the health departments do to protect our girls?

REPLY.

Thyroid enlargement in girls is not always a serious matter. As a rule the thyroid can be expected to return to normal size as maturity is reached.

In some places iodin is added to the drinking water. In other places the health department circulates booklets containing advice as to goiter prevention. It is possible your department does this.

Kotex Announces a new Sanitary Belt and Apron

The Belt
2 widths
1 inch or 1½ inch
Small, Large and Medium

The Apron
2 sizes
Regular—Junior

SURELY every woman will be interested in this news! A new standard of sanitary comfort . . . complete in every detail...because the Kotex Company has decided to make a sanitary belt and apron that are as perfect in their way as Kotex pads.

Belt curved to fit

The new Kotex belt is different from any you ever saw. It is woven, not cut, to fit the body curves. Light . . . yet firm.

This new belt is perfectly tailored and finished, as you would expect a Kotex product to be. The pinning tabs are of firm satin, so attached that body motion cannot affect the firm set of pad and belt. The pins are attached by fine, strong grosgrain ribbon. The belt comes in a choice of widths and sizes.

Lightly rubberized apron

Experiments were made until we found the exact rubberization necessary to waterproof this apron. We found that only 5/1000 of an inch was needed. Hence—a light, silken apron that will not become gummy. You will find it a desirable apron for constant wear, to keep skirts free from wrinkles.

Ask for both apron and belt at any drug, dry goods or department store where you buy Kotex. The belt—60 cents. The apron—85 cents.

Seattle Youth Tops Public Golfers

Gwan Has 72 Card; Brooklyn Leads Team Play.

Capital's Entries Far Behind; Champion Disqualified.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Harry T. Givan, 19-year-old Seattle golfer, showed the way today to a field of 116 players shooting the first 18 holes of the qualifying round in the ninth annual national public links golf tournament. Givan shot a 36-37, for one over par at 72.

The Brooklyn team finished far out in front at the half way mark for the Warren G. Harding trophy, with a four-man score of 311, seven strokes under Pittsburgh. Washington, D. C. finished tenth. The team matches will be decided tomorrow in another eighteen holes.

Joseph S. Green, of Philadelphia, who was among the last to finish today, registered a 75 for next place.

U. S. G. A. Rules Champion Out.

Carl Kauffman, defending champion, who has held the title three years, was disqualified from further playing.

The champion penalized himself a stroke today because his ball moved as he addressed it. His score was certified and posted, but later he was allowed to eliminate the stroke. Then the question arose that he could not have his score changed without violating a rule of the United States Golf Association, but the matter was turned over later to the U. S. G. A. officials, who announced the disqualification.

Kauffmann had 82 for his first eighteen holes.

Only 23 finished under 80, giving an added indication that a pair of 80s in the two rounds will qualify for the match play.

Brooklyn, 311; Pittsburgh, 318; Louisville, 319; Philadelphia, 327; Portland, 328; Jacksonville, 328; Detroit, 330; Akron, 333; New York, 335; Washington, 335; St. Paul, 338; San Ford, 340; St. Louis, 340; San Francisco, 341; Cleveland, 342; Baltimore, 344; Boston, 348; Dayton, 353.

Burrows' 79 Is Best Of Washington Entries

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 5. — The tricky greens and sand traps of the local municipal course spelled disaster for representatives of Washington, D. C., in the national public links tournament, which started here today.

B. H. Burrows led the delegation from the National Capital today with a 79 for the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round. The scores of the other five ranged upward to 92. Par for the course is 72 and it withstood the challenges of the field of 116 which teed off this morning.

It was estimated tonight that a pair of 81s will qualify for match play which starts Wednesday, and Louis Fuchs is the only other Washington golfer who seems to have a chance to make the grade. He shot an 82. Robert Burton was next in line with an 85. While Sam Parks, who completes Washington's entry in the chase for the Warren G. Harding Team Championship Trophy, had an 89. Wesley Billings, who is eligible for the individual title, was all over the course to post a 92.

Washington's team score for the first day was 335. Cards for the five Washington players with par follows:

EUGENE C. GOTT—PRESIDENT

TRADED

Denny Sothern Traded by Phils To Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The exchange via the waiver route of Fred Brickell, center fielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates for Denny Sothern, center fielder of the Philadelphia Nationals, was announced today by Sam Dreyfuss, vice president of the Pittsburgh Club. Sothern will report to the Pirates Thursday.

Brickell will report to the Phillies at Cincinnati Friday.

Denny Sothern long was prominent on the sandlots of Washington both as a baseball player and a football star.

Sothern performed with various independent nines in the city, but his local fame was greater on the gridiron, where he shone brilliantly with the Georgetown A. C. Eleven, perennial challengers of the Mohawks for the city championship.

His speed both on the diamond and on the gridiron was outstanding. After playing for years on local diamonds, Sothern entered organized baseball in the Eastern Shore League. The next season he was with the Three-Eye League and spent the following year with the Eastern League. He was plucked by the Phillies in 1927 and made good from the outset. He has been the club's regular centerfielder since. His current batting average is .280. Brickell is hitting .295.

Wilson's 36th Homer Aids Cubs to Win, 5-4

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Aided by Hack Wilson's thirty-sixth home run of the season and three runs scored in the ninth, the Chicago Cubs fought an uphill battle to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of the series here today, 5 to 4. Bill Hallahan pitched masterful ball for the Redbirds until the ninth, allowing but one other hit besides Wilson's homer. In the finial frame he weakened, the first two men up making singles. Rhem and Haines finished, Rhem being charged with the defeat.

Chick Hafey and Frankie Frisch also hit for the circuit.

Macks Beaten By Red Sox In 9th

Boston Ties Score in 8th Before Gaining 4-3 Victory.

Miller's Hit Decides; Athletics' Lead Cut to 7½ Games.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox took the final of the four game series with the Athletics here today when, staging one-run rallies in the eighth and ninth innings, they beat the world's champions by a score of 4 to 3, and the Macks' lead over the second-place Washington Club was reduced to seven and one-half games.

Phil Todt's home run in the eighth tied the score and in the ninth Cedric Durst, leading hitter of the day, made a double for his fourth safety and scored the winning run on a single by Otis Miller, who batted for Regan. Durham pitched cleverly for the Sox, but was relieved in the ninth with two on and one out. Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx hit successive homers in the fourth inning.

Whitehill Beats Indians To Score 8th Straight

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—An eighth inning rally that netted Detroit four runs enabled Earl Whitehill to win his eighth consecutive victory today, Detroit defeating Cleveland 5 to 4.

For seven innings Detroit trailed Cleveland, chiefly because of poor support given Whitehill by his infield. Three of Cleveland's four runs were unearned. Akers was the main offender in the field but he made amends at bat in the eighth when he drove the ball over the left-field wall, sending in the tying run and scoring the winning run himself.

Boston, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Fred Frankhouse held the Phillies to six hits today and the Braves gave the Philadelphians a 7-to-2 setback. Catcher Spohrer left the game with a charley horse before he could join the other members of the tribe in registering at least a single off the Philly pitchers. Welsh led the Boston onslaught with two singles and a double.

7 AMERICANS WIN CANADA MATCHES

Held Wins, 8 and 6, in Play for Amateur Golf Crown.

LONDON, Ontario, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Faced by the defending champion, Eddie Held, of Great Neck, N. Y., seven players from the United States advanced to the second round of match play in the Canadian amateur golf championship today.

Finding the 36-hole matches that mark the Canadian titular event much to their liking, the Americans lost only two of the contingent of nine who made the grade in the 36-hole qualifying round yesterday.

Joining Held in the second round were Francis W. Ryan, of Detroit, and J. Raymond Ferguson, of Philadelphia, who tied for the medal in the qualifying round; J. Wood Platt, of Philadelphia; Fred J. Wright, of Newton, Mass.; S. S. Merritt, of Noble, Pa., and Frank Connolly, of Dearborn, Mich.

The nine Canadian survivors included C. Ross Somerville, of London, Ontario; Nicol Thompson, jr., of Toronto; W. D. Taylor, Carrol M. Stuart and J. A. Cameron, of Montreal; Gordon Taylor, jr., Fred G. Hoblitzel and Eric Russell, of Toronto, and Alex Weir, of Winnipeg.

Held played consistent golf to overwhelm the Brantford, Ontario, player, J. L. Lewis, 8 and 6, and Ferguson and Platt also turned in decisive victories for the Americans, Ferguson eliminated S. B. Helmtzman, of Toronto, 12 and 11, while Platt was putting out J. A. Fuller, of Montreal, 10 and 8.

Yanks Recall Jorgens, Jersey City Backstop

New York, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Arndt Jorgens, catcher for the Jersey City club of the International League, has been recalled by the New York Yankees. The arrival of the 24-year-old receiver today was timely as Catcher Bill Dickey was forced out of the opening game of a double-header with the National's with a bruised finger.

ROBINS BEAT GIANTS, 9-8, IN 10TH

BROOKLYN, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—The league-leading Robins captured a spectacular struggle from the New York Giants today, scoring three runs in the tenth to gain a 9-to-8 decision and an even break in the four-game series.

Brooklyn went into the ninth leading 6 to 1, but the veteran Cuban, Adolfo Luque, weakened with two out and the Giants tied the score, Bill Terry climaxing the rally with a homer that sent three runs across the plate and drove Luque to the showers. Heimach was called in, but one double sent him away, and Ray Phelps took his turn. Phelps was hit hard in the tenth, the Giants counting twice.

Walker, the fifth and last of the New York pitchers, was on the mound in the tenth, when the Robins cut loose, scoring three runs and winning the game. Terry's hitting was a feature, the Giants' first baseman getting five hits in six trips to the plate.

Rip Van Winkle Runs Second, Length and Half Behind.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Payne Whitney's Surf Board, which races in the name of the Greentree Stable, scored an impressive victory in the Saratoga Sales Stakes, which featured the card here today. Surf Board scored decisively over some 'air 2-year-olds, which included Red Flare, whom many claim to be as good as Jamestown. Surf Board was ridden by Mack Garner and sold as a yearling for $5,000.

The Sagamore's Rip Van Winkle, which cost $1,300, was second and Cuchulain, who fetched $4,600, third. The start was bad, Barometer being left, while Never Fade was away poorly. Prince d'Amour, who races for Joe Leiter, jumped away to the lead, but before he had gone a furlong Surf Board had moved into command. The Greentree Stable colt drew away to win easily by a length and a half. Rip Van Winkle was two lengths ahead of Cuchulain. The race was worth $4,775.

Whitney's Bezonian Latonia Winner.

Latonia, Ky., Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Harry Payne Whitney's Bezonian, a second-time starter this meeting, won the Devon Park purse, a dash of 6 furlongs, the principal attraction on the afternoon card. Bernice Van was second and Poppyfield accounted for the show end of the purse.

Poppyfield was off running followed by Bernice Van and Bezonian. They ran in this order until midway home, where Jockey Kenneth Russell, who had the mount on Bezonian, let his mount down and passed the leaders to win easily. Poppyfield was the odds-on favorite, but tired badly in the final drive. The winner ran the distance in 1:13 flat and paid $7.18 in the mutuels to win.

Wacker Drive Scores at Hawthorne.

Chicago, July 5 (A.P.).—The colors of J. J. Coughlin flashed under the wire first today when his 5-year-old Wacker Drive won the fifth number on the card at Hawthorne race course. Princess Edith, from the Royal Stable, was second, and Moderation, from J. P. Manheimer's Stable, was third.

The race, the best of a card composed entirely of claiming events, was for 3-year-olds and up over the mile and a sixteenth distance and worth $900 to the winner. The time was 1:48 3-5 over a track rated as good.

Wacker Drive was rated along close up to the leaders, but under heavy wraps to the turn into the home stretch, and closing on Princess Edith in the stretch run was up to win in a hard drive by a neck. Princess Edith set the pace to the stretch turn and held on well to the the place by six lengths. Moderation beat House Girl by three lengths for third money.

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 5. — WHICHONE, the Henry Payne Whitney star, being conditioned for the Travers in which he will meet his persistent rival, Gallant Fox, probably is farther advanced in his training and recuperation than was generally known, from the fact that he will be started in the Saranac Handicap which features the Saratoga card today and tomorrow. WHICHONE did not impress as being the equal of the Bleair champion when they met in the Belmont Stakes on June 7, and soon after that the Whitney 3-year-old suffered a quarter crack and since has been on the shelf. He was sent to Saratoga early in July, and has been improving rapidly from the removal of the quarter crack, and for the last week or so has been working satisfactorily.

The fact that he goes in the Saranac with 128 pounds is proof that Trainer Healy is sending a fit horse to the post. While his price may be very short, he will win, and concede much weight to every other horse in the field of welve.

MR. SPONGE, winner of the Shevlin at Aqueduct over Jack High and others of top class, will carry 117 pounds, and is regarded as the contender against the Whitney horse. CARUSO, which has won one race this year, beating Sun Beau in the mud, probably outranks the others. His form is somewhat obscure. He may be better than his races show. SARAZEN II with 110 should not be overlooked. His last race was below standard. POLYGAMUS is in good form and may figure in the race, other than the winning role. The Saranac is a mile and has an added value of $3,500. Last year Hard Tack won the stake at 40 to 1.

FIRST RACE—FRUMPER is selected to win, not on his recent races so much as his improvement. He broke sidewise in his last start and had no chance. HOLIDAY is very dangerous and has been working well. He led Sun Shadow into the stretch last out and stopped as if short. STEPHANITE showed improvement last out and should get the show money. Thirteen are listed in the race at a mile.

THE SECOND on the program is the Stoney Point Steeplechase Handicap. The Greentree Stable's BOLD KNIGHT is regarded better than the ACE II at the weights and is picked to win. It looks like a two horse race with the ACE II the contender. GIPSEY KING, making his first start as a jumper, should beat MR. JINGO, the only other starter.

THE THIRD RACE—The Lucerne, for 2-year-olds, is a good spot for ORMESBY and will be a workout for the Fitzsimmons colt for the special Saturday when he will meet EQUIPOISE and probably JAMESTOWN. ORMESBY worked 6 furlongs in 1:13 the other morning and should win this race easily. CONDESCEND perhaps will be the contender on his second to BEAU JOLIE last week. SMEAR beat Repentance last out and should be in the money.

THE FIFTH RACE, called the Prudery, for 3-year- old fillies, brings out a classy field, with BETTY BEAU, on her two victories at Empire City won over MEMORIES DEAR, picked to win. She is in top condition and the 6 furlongs will suit, for she is a front runner, and will be hard to catch. SPELLBOUND is regarded as the outstanding contender. CHALICE or FLOSSINE will be third to finish. CHALICE'S last race was bad, but she has been working well here and will improve, and will improve on that race. FLOSSINE has not been out since Belmont Park's meeting when she was second to Enid.

SIXTH RACE—UPSWEEP should repeart in the sixth event. He takes off weight and in his last race, beat Old Sport and other good ones, giving away weight with Sande up. GREATOREX and MORHEART will fight it out for the place.

† Catawba Stable entry.

MILKMAN was much the best. He broke fast, raced into lead, saved ground and drew away easily at end. BROWN TRAP was kept well up and was next best. MEMORIES displayed good speed and held on well. TRAPMAR was hard ridden all the way and did no excuse. BRONZE STAR went well.

SECOND RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200 added. Pittsfield Claiming Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:32. Off at 3:36½. LUGGAGE, away well, was kept close to the early pace, took lead turning into the stretch, drew away and won easily. HORNPIPE broke in a tangle and, outrun for seven furlongs, closed ground gamely and would have won with a good break. CESARE, away well, showed speed and had no mishaps. LAHOR was practically left, but closed a big gap and would have been a keen contender with a good start. PANUCO opened a wide lead in the first half mile, but quit to a walk in the stretch. KILDARE was well up early and had no mishaps. BANNERETTE was never a serious contender.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500 added. The Saratoga Sales Stakes. For 2-year-olds. Start bad. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:05½. Off at 4:07½. SURF BOARD handled his weight well, raced PRINCE D'AMOUR into defeat, drew out in stretch and won nicely in hand. RIP VAN WINKLE broke fast, was crowded back in first furlong, came with a rush in final furlong and was a fast-going second. CUCHULAIN, well up from the start, held on gamely. NEVERFADE slipped through on the inside and finished gamely. RED FLARE, on the outside, made a determined bid around the turn, but weakened fast in stretch. He is evidently overrated. PRINCE D'AMOUR had plenty of early speed, but weakened in final furlong.

FOURTH RACE—Wilson mile. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-old fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:33. Off at 4:33½. Winner, Greentree Stable's b. f. GOOSE EGG ran as if much the best. She broke fast, was sent to the front, galloped under restraint to stretch and stood drive gamely to hold race safe. ESCUTCHEON was kept close to pace, closed gamely in the stretch, but was not good enough. SCIENCE was kept well up, bothered ELECTA at the stretch turn and outgamed her for the show. ELECTA moved up very fast on the inside, but was blocked and knocked back at stretch turn. She recovered and finished fast.

FIFTH RACE—Wilson mile. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:01. Off at 5:05½. Winner, Edwin Broccas Stable's br. c. ZEAL, under energetic handling, moved up very fast in stretch and, racing JUGGLER down, drew out to win nicely in hand. JUGGLER ran into an early lead, saved ground, but weakened in last sixteenth. BOSKY broke fast, but could not hold his position. He cleared fast. SUN HATTER was in close quarters in stretch. BRAMABIAU displayed good early speed, but tired in stretch. POLYPON had early speed.

COMIC ran like a good colt. He broke a bit sluggish, but ran into long lead early, tired in stretch, but held race safe. PORTERNESIA swerved badly in stretch, which probably cost him the race. SEA FOX was well up all the way and had no mishaps. SIR JOHN ALDEN ran a good race. SOUPCON is worth remembering. BLACK DOVE had no mishaps.

3 BIG MINOR LEAGUES MAKE PACT TO IGNORE DRAFT

Circuits Band To Oppose Majors

New 'Triple Entente' Prepared to Sever All Relations.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (A.P.). — Confronted with a boycott threat by the major leagues over the draft question, representatives of the American Association, Pacific Coast and International Leagues today began formation of a "triple entente" to protect their interests.

A committee of three, headed by Walter E. Hapgood, general manager of the Montreal Club of the International League, was appointed to make recommendations for a united front in the draft and other problems with other minor league loops and to make a report at a special conference at Montreal during the first week in December when the national Association meets and when the major league boycott becomes effective.

Other members of the committee were Charles Graham, vice president of the San Francisco Club of the Pacific Coast League, and Oscar J. Smith, president of the Toledo Club of the American Association.

Protect Interest by Unified Front.

"It was decided that it was to the interest of the three class AA leagues to work in closer harmony and to protect better their interests by a unified front," Chairman Hapgood said.

The three leagues, Hapgood said, have decided to ignore the ultimatum of the majors that they submit to some acceptable draft agreement or be boycotted on and after December 1, 1930.

"We intend to stick to the agreement we made in Kansas City in 1921 in which it was agreed that no league not in sympathy with the draft was compelled to accept it," he said. "If the major leagues want to sever relations with us over the draft, why, we can't help it. We plan to ignore the ultimatum if that is what it amounts to. That question, however, was not taken up today. The leagues have decided that issue separately."

Would Sever All Relations.

If the majors carry out their threat, no business relations whatsoever will exist between them and the "big three" of the minors after December 1. No players would be purchased and nons sold or traded. Such an estrangement would cause some hardship on the major league clubs which own "farm" in either of the three leagues, but the best prospects on such farms probably would be placed on option in draft leagues until they were ready for major league baseball or until peace was established.

President Ernest Barnard, of the American League, said he believed the difficulty would be ironed out satisfactorily by December 1, but that the majors were determined the draft principle be accepted.

"We're willing to play poker with them to a liberal degree," President Barnard said, "but we are bound to thrash out the draft question. The agreement made nine years ago has been antiquated by new developments such as the baseball farms and a new one is necessary. We intend to get one or carry out our threat of severing relations with such leagues."

Western, Three Eye Leaps to Join.

In addition to the "big three" the Western and Three Eye Leagues have been exempt from the draft since the Kansas City agreement. They were expected to ignore the threat also.

Seven representatives of the three class AA leagues met in today's conference, which was held behind closed doors. In addition to the members of the new committee, they were William Neal, representative of the Louisville American Association Club; Warren Giles, president-treasurer of the Rochester International League Club; Bob Connery, president of the St. Paul Club of the American Association, and George E. Muehlebach, president of the Kansas City Club of the American Association.

Renewal of the agreement with minor league clubs, the chief reason for the conference originally, will be in the hands of the committee.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

Ruffing fanned three Nats in a row in the third and fourth, Ruel and Brown ending round 3 and Myer starting the next frame. After Sam Rice tripled, Manush and Cronin both whiffed, making five strike-out victims in the two frames for the former Red Sox.

Sam Rice's error on Harry Rice's single in the fourth was a costly one, as it let one man score and put the hitter on third in a position to tally on Lary's sacrifice fly.

West tried to beat out a bunt in the fifth, but was nipped on an eyelash decision when Lazzeri fielded the ball perfectly.

Liska made a sensational diving catch of Reese's pop near the foul line in the seventh, missing the runner by inches on his headlong fling over the base line.

It sounded as if Babe Ruth was at bat when Art Shires went up to hit for Liska opening the eighth, with cheers and boos being about equally mixed. The "Great One" rolled to Reese.

Myer showed some speed in beating out his swinging bunt to Gehrig in round 8.

Pitcher Harry Child was called on starting the home eighth and pitched another scoreless inning. He walked two, with only one dead, but then pulled out of this hole, thanks largely to making a strike victim of Lary.

Cooke, Reese and Gehrig surrounded Bluege's Texas leaguer, which filled the bases in the ninth, but none could get close enough to the ball to snare it.

28 Girls Win Team Places In Georgetown Pool Races

REPRESENTATIVES of the Western section who will swim against the Eastern half of the city in the annual Municipal Playground swimming championships for girls next Tuesday were named yesterday in the Georgetown pool, where a meet was held to select the squad.

Twenty-eight mermaids won places on the team after two hours of competition. Clara Wrenn was the outstanding performer with two first places to her credit. Miss Wrenn was first in the 25-yard free style and 25-yard side stroke in the 15 and 16 year old classes.

The beginners' races brought out considerable interest. In the 10-year-old-and-under class 21 lassies strived for a place on the Western team, while in the 11 and 12 year old beginners' race 11 budding aquatic stars faced the starter. In the younger class Mary Wilson won, while in the older Mary Jones led at the finish.

Canal Zone Lass First to Finish.

The balloon race afforded the several hundred spectators with unusual amount of interest. Doris Hale, a diminutive little 10-year-old lass from the Canal Zone, led all starters over the 25-yard stretch to the balloons, but apparently the texture of her toy balloon was a little better than the others, for while she inflated it to a larger size than any of the others it did not break until three of her competitors had succeeded. The winner is the first one to break the balloon. However, Doris qualified in the 25-yard free-style race.

The Eastern section team will be selected in the Rosedale pool this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The following girls qualified for the finals yesterday.

10 TO 12 YEAR OLD CLASS.

15 TO 16 YEAR OLD CLASS.

Garfield Girls Lose Playground Net Honors

The long reign of the Garfield Playground in the municipal playground girl's doubles tennis tournaments, was halted yesterday, when representatives of Hoover Playground eliminated the Southeast lassies by defeating them and winning the title in Section 4 in an upset match.

Grace Taylor and Catherine Griggs, the Hoover players, had little difficulty in defeating Ellen and Rena Burnham 6—2, 6—4. Last year Ellen Burnham was paired with Loveye Adkins and carried off the city honors with ease. The Misses Taylor and Griggs will meet other sectional winners for the city title.

In the boys' junior tourney, two sectional titles were decided. The Happy Hollow representative, Henry Glassie, defeated Joe Sullivan, of Mitchell Park, 6—0, 6—1, to win the Section 2 honors, while Clyde Smith, of Bloomingdale, took the title in Section 4, when he defeated Jerome Oxenburg, of Barnard, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—0.

Terry Takes Lead In League Batting

(Associated Press.)

Continuing his sensational slugging pace, Bill Terry, Giants' first baseman, yesterday moved into the National League batting leadership. With five hits in six trips to the plate, Terry boosted his average to .407, six more points than Chuck Klein, who dropped three percentage points, when he failed to hit Boston pitching.

O'Doul got one hit but failed to improve or lower his .398 average, while Simmons dropped a point to .384, when he got only one hit in four trips to the plate.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, VA., Aug. 5.—Ken Smith, Alexandria boy, who starred as a pitcher in local baseball circles and later went to the New Haven Club in the Eastern League, is now a member of the Sheboyan team in the Wisconsin State Outlaw League.

Smith performs with this club each week-end. Many former big league players are playing in this competition. Last Sunday, the big Alexandrian defeated the Two Rivers club 3-2, allowing seven hits. Five of these were made after the seventh frame. This was the first defeat that the Two Rivers Nine had suffered this year.

In the fall and winter months, Smith is athletic director at the Palmer Institute in Chicago. He coached his baseball team to a championship the past school season.

The Carter Motor Co. baseball team and the Potterfield A. C. played to a 4-4 tie in a game on Haydon's Field this afternoon. Herbie Robinson pitched for the Fordmen.

The first football activity of the season was held in Alexandria today, when Mike Goldman, coach of the Alpha Delta Omega eleven, called out his candidates. Twelve men reported for practice.

Goldman is a former George Washington University gridder. He performed at guard for the Buff and Blue. Those signed with the "Pratters" are Schuman, Scrivener, Baggett, Martin, Soear, Jones, Seabloom, Vernon, Hancock, Luckett, Newman and Haywood. All are former Alexandria High School varsity men. The Fraternity boys will play senior class football.

On Wednesday the first night swimming meet of the season will feature at the municipal pool. Sidney Hancock, head lifeguard, is in charge of this event. A large number of entries have been received. Races for all classes will feature.

The Colonial Athletic Club will mix with the Southern Railway Clerks in a game of baseball at the Colonial's field this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. All players are requested to be present at 5 o'clock.

Joe Duncan, tennis champion at Mount St. Joseph's College, is not entered in the city net tournament here. Duncan won the honors last year. The municipal senior tourney is expected to get under way next week.

LITTLE STORIES OF FAST SUCCESSES

(NUMBER EIGHT) RAMON NOVARRO

His Spanish forebears conquered Mexico . . . won the country in ten brief years. But Ramon alone conquered America, conquered Europe, and all points east . . . in scarcely more than a camera's flicker

For Ramon gave the world a thrill!

And that's the tale of another young conqueror, OLD GOLD cigarettes. New England surrendered in just two months. "You win, OLD GOLD!" said the Middle West. From coast-to-coast the victory spread. And in just one year, OLD GOLD became the country's fastest growing cigarette.

Because OLD GOLD, like Novarro, offered the world a brand new thrill. Finer tobaccos gave a mellower taste. Better tobaccos ended throat-scratch.

© P. Lorillard Co.

IN QUAINT SAN ANTONIO OLD GOLD APPEARED DECEMBER 1927. JUST TWO MONTHS LATER OLD GOLD WAS ONE OF THE FOUR BEST SELLERS THROUGHOUT THE LONE STAR STATE.

STOCK GAINS LOST IN AFTERNOON DROP

OUTPUT OF STEEL RISES

New York, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Stocks advanced in the morning and sold off in the afternoon today. Trading was moresctive on the rise than on the decline, largely because of activities of bullish professionals whose purpose was to push their favorites through the old highs for the recovery.

In one or two instances, notably, U. S. Steel, they succeeded, but there were no strenuous efforts to force the issue and when the market began to drag profits were taken.

Speculative attention was again focused on grain prices and weather conditions. Reports of rains were supplemented by later advices that the drought was generalyy maintaining its grip and corn, after sagging in the early dealings, resumed its advance, closing 1¾ to 3¾ cents higher. The gains in wheat ranged from 2¾ to 3¼ cents. Cotton broke $1 to $1.50 a bale here on reports of showers in the Southwestern belt.

The advance in stocks on news of weather that may well seriously curtail farm income was generally interpreted as a natural reaction from the bearish influence which the recent declines in the grains had exerted on share prices. Disaster to the corn and wheat farmers would hardly represent a bullish development at a time when the financial community is looking forward eagerly to a business revival, but it was pointed out that the sudden strength of the grain markets had turned the tables so completely that stocks were bound to respond at least temporarily.

American Can Slumps.

Part of the heaviness that developed during the later hours of today's trading appeared to be based on a realization that the situation in corn and wheat belts may be more serious than Wall street had been inclined to believe. Some of the weaker shares were the farm implement and can issues, the latter yielding on prospects of a reduced pack. International Harvester lost 2 points, J. I. Case, 3½; American Can, 1¼, and Continental Can a major fraction.

The market's leadership on the rally was provided by U. S. Steel, which was bid up to 170¼, the highest price in two months, before its strength was expended. It dropped 2 points from the top, but was off only a fraction at the close. Radio, Standard Oil of New Jersey and General Motors were also well supported, although all showed small net losses.

Early estimates of steel operations showed a small improvement in ingot production. Some independent companies were said to be working on a basis almost 1 per cent higher than last week, while U. S. Steel shaded higher. Dow Jones placed the average for the industry at 58 per cent of capacity against 57½ per cent in the past two weeks.

Several Rails Advance.

The morning sprint in share prices embraced the merchandising, chemical, rail, motor and motor accessory shares, bringing out gains of 2 to 4 points in Allied Chemical, Columbian Carbon, American Tobacco, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, Foster Wheeler, R. H. Macy, Vanadium, Auburn Auto, Union Pacific, St. Louis, San Francisco, Louisville & Nashville, Missouri Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line. Most of these gains, however, were surrendered later.

Warner Bros. Pictures rallied 2 points on covering, prompted by a renewal of reports that John J. Raskob was to be made chairman of the board, but lost its rise. American Telephone was heavy all day, losing a couple of points net on profit taking from Monday's 6-point advance. Youngstown Sheet & Tube was a late feature, rallying several points on a few sales and closing 8 higher. Gillette, General Refractories, Worthington Pump and Corn Products were off about 2, while Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Republic Steel, Consolidated Gas, International Telephone and American & Foreign Power sagged a point.

With the engagement of $10,000,000 in gold for shipment to France tonight, the total movement to that country was expanded to $53,000,000. The money markets have failed to exhibit uneasiness over the loss and today's stiffening of the call rate to 2½ per cent—the first change in a fortnight—was attributed to conditions that normally prevail during the early days of the month.

Foreign exchanges were firm. Maintenance of sterling around $4.87¼ is leading to increased discussion as to the possibility of gold exports to London, for some bankers believe that recent developments have lowered the shipment point to around $4.87¾.

MANY RAIL BONDS TOUCH 1930 PEAKS

UTILITY SECTION MIXED

New York, Aug. 5 (A.P.).—Lively interest was displayed in railroad bonds today. On the strength of the improved inquiry for both first and second grade carrier obligations, many issues forged into new high ground for the year as more active trading developed.

The averages showed that railroad bonds, which have been climbing slowly for several months, reached a new peak at 107.9. The extensive accumulation was responsible for an improvement in the sales volume which was at low ebb Monday. A few utility and foreign issues joined the advance.

The Paramount Publix 5½ per cent bond offered at 94½ sold at a small premium on the stock exchange. The $15,000,000 offering was quickly oversubscribed and the books closed. The 6 per cent loan of 1947 sagged.

Brisk bidding for the rails enabled some to rise spectacularly, 1 to 2 points, while the general level as shown by the averages advanced .4 of a point, a large gain.

Bonds reaching new high prices for the year included Atlantic Coast Line first 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio refunding 4½s, Chicago Union Station 4½s, New York Central 4s, Northern Pacific 5s, Louisville & Nashville 4½s, Pennsylvania gold 5s and St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway 4s. Other issues sold at their highest prices, and about the only important exception from the forward movement was Missouri Pacific 5s of 1977 which dropped ½ point. Activity was particularly extensive in St. Paul issues, the adjustment 5s gaining nearly a point on heavy sales, and Illinois Central and Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans 5s which advanced nearly a point.

Utility issues moved irregularly higher. New York tractions were strong. Metropolitan Edison 4½s sold at a new 1930 and a similar performance was given by Rochester Gas & Electric 4½s, up 2½ points on thin sales. New York Telephone 4½s, American Telephone and International Telephone issues were steady. Detroit Edison 6s were weak.

The price level of foreign issues was little disturbed. Leading European governments held steady. The best gains were made by French municipals and Cuba 4½s, which reached new 1930 marks.

Treasury 4s eased on heavy selling. Other United State Governments were dull and steady.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

A CREEPING PEN FOR BABY.
(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

A creeping pen affords the necessary protection and gives room for exercise. It consists of a fence made in four sections, each 18 inches high and 4 feet long, hinged at three corners and latched at the fourth. Ready-made pens have spindles like a stair rail, so that the baby may have something to take hold of when he tries to climb to his feet. As it folds together the pen can be readily moved about.

The floor of the pen should have a washable cover tied to the corners by strong tapes. Denim or ticking may be used. A combination bed and play pen, the sides of which are covered with wire netting, is on the market. It also has a spring and mattress and is covered below with netting. The bed has a cover which protects the baby from flies and mosquitoes. It is fitted with casters or wheels so that it may be moved about readily. It may be folded up when not in use.

When it is not possible to purchase one of the ready-made articles an ingenious person may devise a satisfactory play pen from materials at hand, or a smooth board 6 or 8 feet long and a foot wide may be used to fence off a sunny corner of the nursery for a pen.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 5 (A.P.)—Moves by President Hoover to furnish Government aid to drought areas, gave a powerful upward impulse today to prices of all grain, especially corn. Largely owing to market effects of a statement which the President issued relative to Government relief, corn quotations went soaring above any point heretofore reached this season, and up 5¼c a bushel from today's bottom level. An estimate from Secretary Hyde of the United States Department of Agriculture suggested corn crop losses amounted to 500,000,000 bushels, and there were unofficial estimates that the new crop has been reduced 10,000,000 tons, equal to the feed value of 140,000,000 bushels of corn.

Both corn and wheat closed feverishly at virtually the day's top prices, corn 1⅝@4½ cents higher than yesterday's finish, with wheat at 2@3-cent net advance, oats ½@1⅝ cents up, and provisions showing 7-15-cent gain.

It was not until the final half-hour of trading that President Hoover's statement threw into high relief the magnitude of losses suffered by the corn crop. News of the President's plans for broad administrative measures in connection with the crop disaster, however, quickly aroused big buying of corn futures for delivery, and the market suddenly shot skyward, offerings being altogether inadequate to cope with the urgent demand. Adding to the force of the upward swing of values was a report from the United States Weather Bureau that nothing in the nature of a real break-up of the prevailing heat wave was in sight.

Reports of rains in Nebraska, Iowa, and elsewhere helping to check drought damage had brought about an early setback both of corn and wheat prices, and there were predictions of threatening weather over most of the corn belt, but only local showers were indicated. Other advices told of countless late and early fields of corn being now past hope, and noted that the "firing" of the corn crop had extended to sweet bottom-lands heretofore immune. At times, too, the corn market received buoyancy from the wheat market, although in the end corn was plainly the leader of the two.

Export sales of North American wheat in the last 24 hours were estimated in some quarters as totaling 4,500,000 bushels. This circumstance, together with Secretary Hyde's statement of imminent losses of corn in the last week and of consequent probable high augmented use of wheat as a livestock feed substitute for corn, had much to do with hoisting the wheat market. Advices were also received that black rust in Canada was causing crop injury, and that the wheat crop of France showed daily greater shrinkage. Oats followed corn rather than wheat.

Closing indemnities were: Wheat—September, 89½@89¾; 94½@94¾; December, 94½@95¾. 1.00@1.00¼; March, 1.00, 1.05¼. Corn—September, 90¾, 93½; December, 86¾, 92¼@93; March 89¼, 96. Cash grain:

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

CAMPBELL HEARING TODAY WILL DECIDE PLEA FOR REMOVAL

Arguments on Jurisdiction of Capital in Baker Case to Be Weighed.

U. S. COMMISSIONER ARBITER IN VIRGINIA

Murder Suspect Fights Plan to Bring Him to Trial in District Court.

United States Commissioner J. Barton Phillips, of Alexandria, today will hear arguments on a removal warrant to bring Herbart M. Campbell, accused of the murder of Mary E. Baker, to the District for trial.

Campbell will be brought from the Alexandria City Jail at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. United States Deputy Marshal William Schoeni and Lieut. Edward J. Kelly will take the suspect to the offices of the commissioner, where at 2 o'clock Assistant United States Attorney Alban Jones, of Norfolk, Va., will present the Government's application for the warrant.

Lawyer to Oppose Removal.

Charles H. Smith, counsel for the accused, will oppose the issuance of the process. Acting United States Attorney William H. Collins conferred yesterday with Mr. Jones on the procedure to be followed in the Government's case.

Should the commissioner side with Mr. Smith in his contention that venue must be established before a prisoner may be transferred, the Government is prepared to call Lieut. Kelly to the stand to narrate the evidence against the prisoner. No other witnesses for the Government will be present.

Wife Visits Prisoner.

Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell, wife of the prisoner, yesterday visited the Alexandria Jail. She brought her usual package of edibles for her husband. Both the suspect and his wife were in good humor. Mrs. Campbell remained a short while and then left.

If Mr. Smith's contentions prevail, he and Campbell plan to go to Canada for a vacation. Mr. Smith had planned to leave this week for the rest of the summer, but his espousal of the Arlington County realty dealer's cause brought a deferment of his trip.

Mr. Smith intends to issue a lengthy statement tomorrow afternoon if his client is released. However, he said, if the commissioner rules against him, he will withhold the statement. Mr Smith declined to intimate the nature of the document.

Paving Record Is Set On West Virginia Road

Special to The Washington Post.

Weston, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Twenty-two miles of concrete paving was completed on U. S. Route No. 19, in Lewis County, between Weston and the Braxton County line. One-way traffic is still in effect, and the fresh concrete must be given time to set.

On this work all records for road construction in West Virginia were broken. The 22-mile project was in three contracts, two of which were let in April and the other in May.

Man Gets 90-Day Term After Auto Collision

Arraigned in Police Court yesterday on charges of reckless driving and operating an automobile without a permit, Robert F. Stewart, Negro, was sentenced by Judge John P. McMahon to spend the next 90 days in jail. A 60-day sentence was meted out on the latter charge and a 30-day term on the other.

Stewart was arrested Sunday night at Fifth and I streets northwest after his automobile had mounted the sidewalk, caromed off a fence and collided with two parked machines. Policeman J. E. Bennett, who made the arrest, was injured slightly when he leaped on the running board of Stewart's automobile and cut off the ignition switch.

Virginia Farmer's Barn Is Set Afire

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Aug. 5.—On the farm of Arthur Lee, a prominent Clarke County farmer, about three miles from Berryville, known as the Mike Crow farm, consisting of 230 acres, the large barn with all of its contents, burned to the ground Sunday night.

The fire is thought to be the work of an incendiary, as the telephone wires were found afterwards to have been cut and three poles razed, cutting off communication with Berryville, so that when the fire department at last reached the farm, nothing could be saved in the barn. One thousand two hundred bushels of wheat, which had just been newly threshed; 100 barrels of old corn, invaluable, owing to the failure of that crop in the country this year, on account of the drought; 35 tons of hay all of his machinery and harness, and four calves were lost.

The fire company concentrated on saving the dwelling house, which had begun to smolder from the intense heat from the flames. The loss is estimated at $10,000 with only $3,000 insurance. County officials are still searching for those suspected of incendiarism.

Bass Shifted to River Because of Drought

Special to The Washington Post.

Terra Alta, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Game Protectors Otto B. Clem, of Terra Alta, and E. H. Cross, of Philippi, seined bass from Buffalo Creek and put them in the West Fork River, near West Milford.

The condition of the water in the lower stretches of Buffalo Creek is said to be very bad, due to the drought, and the idea is to save the fish by placing them in a larger stream.

NEW LEAD IS FOUND IN SEARCH FOR COE

HOLDUP VICTIM, IS FEAR

A new lead in the search for Joseph E. Coe, 26-year-old laundry manager, was uncovered yesterday when it was learned that a person believed to be Coe was seen driving toward Washington on Sunday afternoon. He has been missing since Saturday, when he left his home at 3122 Monroe street northwest to join his wife, who was visiting in Annapolis.

James Mason, of 1651 Monticello avenue northeast, a former employe of the laundry, said that he saw Coe Sunday driving toward Washington on the Bladensburg road. Mason said he spoke, but Coe did not appear to recognize him.

Coe, who is superintendent of the Home Laundry, at 1101 Raum street northeast, left Washington after attending a wedding at Thirteenth and Fairmont streets northwest. His wife said that she received a phone call from him about the time that he left, saying that he would be with her in about two hours. Nothing more was seen of him, however.

It is thought that Coe might have been robbed, as he was carrying with him about $100.

Kindred to Seek Maryland Post

Democrat May Have Two Rivals for Nomination as State's Attorney.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 5.—Further indication that Democrats will have a fight within their ranks at the September primary came today when Robert E. Kindred, of Glenburnie, filed certificate of his candidacy for nomination as State's attorney.

Mr. Kindred's entrance means a three-cornered fight for that nomination, as Marvin Anderson has previously declared himself, and, although it was not formally announced, it is expected Theodore Brady will seek renomination and election. Mr. Brady will have the support of the "organization" element of the party. Mr. Kindred, in entering the field, said that within a few days he would issue a formal statement outlining his platform for the campaign.

There is much discussion among the antiorganization partisans of whether to put a complete set of candidates in the primaries or wait and seek recourse to petition in the field for the November election.

Mine Worker Killed Under Fall of Rock

Special to The Washington Post.

Westernport, Md., Aug. 5.—James Alfred Guy, 39, Westernport, was killed late yesterday by a fall of rock in the R. J. Ross Coal Co. mine at Bloomington, near here. He was caught while working alone. His neck was broken. It took half an hour to release his body.

Mr. Guy is survived by his wife, the widow of his brother, whom he married 10 years ago; one daughter and a stepson.

Young Petersburg Will Parade Today

Children of Playgrounds to March in Costume Before Mayor.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 5.—Tomorrow afternoon Petersburg will have its first children's parade, which will be the first of its kind staged in Virginia. There are five city playgrounds here and the children of each will vie with each other in appearing in costume.

The parade will form at Central Park and the line of march will be through many of the principal streets. The parade will be reviewed by Mayor R. T. Wilson, City Manager Paul S. Morton, the city council, the judges and others from the reviewing stand at Courthouse avenue and Sycamore street. Many business firms will have large floats in the parade, as also will Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs.

Merchants will also display large American flags in front of their stores and the front yards of many residences on the line of march will be similarly decorated.

900 BATTLE FOREST FIRES IN MARYLAND

INN IS RAZED BY BLAZE

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 5.—Drafting of men by hundreds in towns in the Georges Creek area to fight the forest fires which continue to spread with great rapidity is in progress.

Nine hundred men are now engaged in fire fighting, nearly all in the Dan's Mountain section, and it is expected the number will swell to 1,500 before inroads of the flames are checked. The flames are rolling over the east side of the mountain toward the Potomac River and Cresaptown, near where the plant of the Celanese Corporation of America is located.

Frostburg has sent men to battle fires at Midlothian, at Sullivans Mine, at Red Hill and on the Frostburg outbreaks. The top of Dan's Mountain is burning for miles. The Llewellyn Bros. farm, Uriah Loar farm and several others are in grave danger.

Dan's Rock, noted scenic spot, is completely surrounded by fire.

The forest fires raging on the headwaters of Stony River and Beaver Creek are moving in the direction of Bayard on the Western Maryland Railway about 50 miles south of here. From high points in Bayard, fires can be seen on every side. The underbrush and the turf are so dry that it is claimed the fire is burning 2 feet deep in the ground and it will take years to replace what is being destroyed.

Wills Mountain Inn, on Wills Mountain, overlooking Cumberland, was destroyed by flames which have been raging on the mountain since Saturday. The building was owned by A. H. Bacas, of Washington, who became its proprietor and manager this year, succeeding Mrs. J. H. Botz, of Baltimore. The inn was built more than 30 years ago as a sanitarium, but later became a summer hotel. It was of fine architecture and splendid interior decoration.

Potomac Baptists' Parley Scheduled

Annual Sessions to Start Tomorrow in Long Branch Church.

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Aug. 5.—The seventy-fifth annual session of the Potomac Baptist Association will open tomorrow morning in the Long Branch Baptist Church, Fauquier County, and will continue through Thursday. O. L. Emerick, of Purcellville, is moderator.

$500,000 SUIT FILED CHARGING AIR FIRM WAS MISMANAGED

Washington Termnials Firm Operation Cited in Action by Funkhouser.

CLAIMS CONSOLIDATION LED TO BUSINESS LOSS

Corporations in Baltimore, Delaware and Capital Named Defendants.

Alleging mismanagement of the Washington Air Terminals Corporation, Robert E. Funkhouser, of 5315 Colorado avenue northwest, filed suit yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court, seeking to recover $500,000 damages.

Hambleton & Co., of 1531 K street northwest; Federal Aviation Corporation, of Dover, Del., and New York City, and the Safe Deposit Trust Co., of Baltimore, trustee and executor of the estate of the late John A. Hambleton are named as defendants.

Mr. Funkhouser told the court that he owend 80 per cent of the stock of the United States Air Transport, Inc., which, with its various subsidiaries, attracted the attention of Mr. Hambleton. The plaintiff states that as a result of this interest he and Mr. Hambleton made a contract to form the Washington Air Terminals Co., the stock of which was estimated to be worth approximately $12.50 per share.

One year after the consolidation of U. S. Transport and Washington Air Terminals, Mr. Funkhouser claims that because of mismanagement a loss of $118,668.42 was sustained. As a result he asserts his holdings in a profitable concern were rendered worthless because they are represented by stock in the new company, which he alleges to be worthless.

Mr. Funkhouser sets out various acts of alleged mismanagement, among them being the claim that more revenue is derived from the part of the airport used as a trash dump than from the part given to air activities.

False-Pretense Charge Filed in Auto Purchase

Several months after he is alleged to have bought an expensive car at second hand from an uptown dealer, Samuel R. Foltz, jr., 24 years old, of Hyattsville, Md., was arrested on false pretense charges. He is said to have given a worthless check for the car.

Arnold Engle, an auto dealer, of 1700 Kalorama road northwest, said that Foltz drove the car to Norfolk and on the way back wrecked it in an accident near Alexandria. Foltz received several broken ribs in the accident.

Three Are Injured In Crash of Autos

One woman was injured seriously and two of her companions suffered minor hurts early yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding collided near Edgewater, Md., with a machine whose driver was not known.

Her 17-year-old daughter, Pansy, suffered lacerations of the mouth, and Sterling Hutchins, 3 years old, was lacerated about the scalp. They were treated at the hospital. E. R. Woodell, 50 years old, husband of the injured woman, was unhurt.

Missing Youth Thought Found in Fredericksburg

A youth answering the description of Morgan P. Moorer, jr., 17-year-old freshman of the University of North Carolina who disappeared last February, was reported last night to be in the vicinity of Fredericksburg, Va.

Mrs. M. P. Moorer, the missing boy's mother, who is now living in Washington, will send photographs of her son to Fredericksburg for verification. The youth now in Fredericksburg says that his name might be moore or Morse, and believes that he came from Texas. He appears to be suffering from a lapse of memory, according to reports from Fredericksburg. A correspondent of The Post located the boy through a picture of Moorer published in this paper.

Which Would You Save?

Apparently every third persons in Washington has his own idea of which members of Thomas A. Edison's hypothetical party lost in the desert should be saved. A few days after this query, which was asked the candidates for the Edison scholarship, was published, The Post offered an opportunity for Washingtonians to express their own views on the subject.

This mythical party was lost in a trackless desert, with sufficient food and water or only three members to escape. The make-up of the exploring group was this: A brilliant scientist, 60 years old; the scientist's wife, aged 39, interested mainly in society affairs; their son, aged 6; two half-breed guides, 58 and 32 years old; a young scientist, the best friend of the leader who ha shown promise of accomplishing things in the scientific world, and the girl the leader is engaged to. The boy who answered the question was to place himself in the place of the leader of the expedition and decide which of the personnel would be saved.

I would give the 32-year-old guide enough provisions to get back to civilization and the rest of the provisions would be rationed to the ones left. We would remain in camp on the desert and do as little work as possible so as not to waste any energy. The guide would get help and a rescue party would come, and we would all be saved. GEORGE A. BIRDSALL.

Another man, emerging from the heat for a moment, worked out his own little answer to the problem, and then went out for a limeade. Here's his solution:

City editor:

Having just suffered a sunstroke, I am ideally prepared to answer the Edisonian quiz about being lost in a deesert with a shy equipment of food and drink. Nobody who wasn't crazy with the heat or something else would either ask or answer that question. Had I remained sane, I should have paid no attention to it. However, since I am rendered goofy by the super-caloricility (I hope Edison will understand this word), I am all set:

The parties, as I understand it in my delirium, are a 60-year-old scientist, his 30-year-old wife, their young son, a younger scientist, two guides, and the questioned young man and his fiances. There is a Chinaman's chance of saving three of the lot, but no more. Well then:

To begin with, I would see that the scientist and his wife and the younger scientist were among the missing when the rescue party should arrive or the three lean survivors straggled back to safety. If growing old as a scientist has the effect of making people think up moronic questions like that one given out by Herr Edison, the sooner we get rid of them all the better.

I would let the son live, for it often occurs that the sons of great scientists are throwbacks to some intelligent person in the lineage, who worked at the carpenter trade or gathered garbage. Give the boy a break; a chance to show that he had not been influenced by his father's obsessions. My reason for letting the scientist's wife accompany him by the starvation route to the happy hunting grounds is that any woman who has lived with a scientist a few years is entitled to the rest which only oblivion or Nirvana would supply.

I would save the guides, both of them. They had suffered unjustly through association with this crowd of bugs, and were entitled to a chance to live it down.

As for myself and the sweetheart, we should be left to perish. Anybody with no more sense than to try to answer this question should be put out of his misery. And a girl with no more gumption than to fall for such an oaf, ought to go with him.

In this communication, for fear you shouldn't know it, I have been as absurd as possible, yet I have been as intelligent and logical as any one else has been or will be, in answering that quiz. There is no intelligent answer to an idiotic question.

STRICKLAND GILLILAN.

J. E. R. seems to think that the question is an impossible one, and that such a condition could never face a scientist. Here's his opinion:

City editor:

1. A 60-year-old scientist on a desert expedition is possible, but hardly probable.

2. His wife and boy, 6 years of age, and the young man's sweetheart have no place in a scientific expedition, and this is rather silly to think they would go or that any one would be foolhardy enough to take them.

3. The two women, the boy and the 60-year-old scientist would be saved by not accompanying the expedition.

4. This leaves the leader of the expedition, his young friend of great promise and the two guides.

5. Here it is stated that there is only enough water and food to bring three persons out alive. How do they know this? If the leader is sure of this then he must know the way out and there would be no need of a guide.

6. A 58-year-old guide in the desert plus the 32-year-old guide is just one too many guides for a small expedition like this, so we eliminate the 58-year-old guide for the reason that it was decided he was too old to withstand the hardships of an expedition of this character and was left behind.

7. This leaves the leader of the expedition, his young friend and the 32-year-old guide and there being enough water and food to bring three persons out alive, these three made their way to safety and lived to organize an expedition or a larger and more satisfactory scale.

J. E. R.

G. M. Raynsford, admitting it is uncertain what he would do in such a dilemma, as a probable solution says he would save the scientists wife, her son and leaders fiancee. Here is his letter:

"What a person thinks he would do under certain circumstances and what he actually does under those circumstances, are frequently at variance.

"I think I would choose the two women and the child.

"Under the conditions of the problem, I fail to see the absolute necessity of a guide being in the party, and if one of the other members got back to civilization, leaving a woman or the child to perish, he would probably regret not having shot himself in the desert.

"G. M. RAYNSFORD."

NEW WATER LINES LAID IN ARLINGTON

County Engineer Kinnier Is Certain Extensions Will Prove Beneficial.

17,000 FEET PLANNED

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier announced last night that within the past 60 days more than 9,000 feet of pipe has been laid in making extensions to the present county water systems. He stated further that there are now bids out for purchase of more than 8,000 feet of pipe to continue extensions to the system.

"Installation of the county water system which was made more than two years ago has saved Arlington County from a most serious condition," he said.

"With hundreds of wells already dry and others with hardly any water in them the value of the system can not be measured in dollars and cents," he declared.

While there is not at present any danger of a water shortage in the county, Engineer Kinnier asks the citizens to use water with care.

He did State that some pressure trouble is being experienced at high levels due to the heavy draft on the system.

The Arlington County Civic Federation will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at the Lyon Park community house at 8 o'clock.

The Arlington County Monarch Club holds its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12 o'clock at the Ashton Heights Womans Club house.

Mrs. Claude S. Semones, of Aurora Hills, and Mrs. Ruby Simpson, of Cherrydale, who have been appointed delegates to the Institute of Public Affairs at Charlottesville tomorrow, will leave tomorrow morning for that place.

Ground has been broken for additions to the James Monroe school building at Aurora Heights by J. H. Bennett, contractor, of Richmond.

Bennett announces that he will start work on school buildings located at Lyon Park, Aurora Hills and Bon Air in the near future.

DISTRICT REGIMENT OF ENGINEERS HARD HIT BY HEAT WAVE

6,000 GALLONS OF CITY WATER SENT TO OUTFIT

Commissioners to Witness Review Tomorrow Afternoon.

The third day of the annual encampment of the 121 Engineer regiment of the District National Guard finds the men settled to a steady grind of work, Col. John L. Oehmann, of the unit, said yesterday. Col. Oehmann, who, in civilian life, is the District building inspector, said the men are engaged now in building pontoon bridges across Johnson's Creek, near Fort Humphreys, where the outfit is encamped.

Mornings are devoted to the bridge building and a part of the afternoon to drill. It has been too hot for long drills, but the men will be in fit condition for the review which will be held tomorrow when the District of Columbia Commissioners will visit the camp.

Review Will Be Held.

The review will be held at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, after the visitors have inspected the camp. Thursday morning also, the local boys will have a distinguished guest when Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, chief of the militia bureau, visits them.

Today the regiment will receive its flags in a colorful ceremony at which Col. Oehmann will act as master of ceremonies. The colors will be presented by the War Department. Also present will be Col. C. E. Schulz, commander of Fort Humphreys, and Lieut. Col. H. A. Finch, assistant commandant of the engineers school at that post.

Col. Oehmann to Speak.

Col. Oehmann will explain the meaning of the engineer's training, and Col. Schuls will address the men on the general subject of the National Guard and the Regular Army.

Washington water is used for all cooking and drinking in the camp, Col. Oehman said. Six thousand gallons a day, brought from Washington 1 ntank trucks, supplements the meager supply at the post. The colonel explains that there is a great advantage in having the men drink the water to which they are accustomed, as sometimes intestinal disorders result from a change in drinking waters.

Company D, in charge of Capt. Samuel R. Turner, has already won for the second time the pennant given for kitchen efficiency. The banner has been nailed to the kitchen, as deference to the other companies. Walter A. Knight is first lieutenant of D Company, and David A. Miller is second lieutenant.

Woman Asks Divorce; Husband in Hospital

Alleging that her husband prior to their marriage concealed from her the fact that he was suffering from an incurable mental ailment, Mrs. Bertha Guttman, of Eighth street northeast near B street, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to annul her marriage to Harry Guttman, who is described as a patient at St. Elizabeths Hospital.

The wife told the court of many of her husband's alleged idiocyncrasies. She declared that before their marriage he suddenly produced a marriage license and told her that if they did not use it they would be arrested. And so they were married on December 10, 1920. Later, the wife states, Guttman sold their furniture and bought a stock of goods to peddle.

They were arrested Sunday night in Connecticut avenue in a car belonging to George C. Belt, 5100 Belt road northwest, which had been reported as stolen to the police. The youths told Detective Leroy E. Batchelor, of the Fourteenth Precinct, that they used the machines for "joy rides," later abandoning them.

In court it was learned that the parents of the youths owned automobiles, but refused them permission to drive. None of the cars taken by the trio was damaged, the owners testified.
